Gas Loan Stirs All-Out Fight

This new TCA jet liner will cut Vancouver-Toronto flying time in half.

TCA Orders Jet Liners For Cross-Canada Service

Trans-Canada Air Lines announced today it is buying U.S.-built jet airliners powered by British engines to link Vancouver and Toronto in four hours and 10 minutes.

Present TCA time for the flight would be up to TCA to make representations to Ottawa if it was thought necessary to increase runway length.

The new jets will enable a passenger to leave Toronto at noon, Eastern time, and arrive in Vancouver slightly after 1 p.m. Pacific time.

Heralding the start of the jet transport age in Canada, TCA said it has ordered four intercontinental four-jet aircraft, and taken an option on two more.

Pat Bay Ruled Out For New Giant Jets

Trans-Canada Air Lines' new equipment will rule out Patricia Bay airport as an alternate field on the basis of present runway length.

The jet giants, due in 1960, will need 8,750 feet of runway—one and three-fifths miles—for take-offs, and 6,700 feet for landings.

At present, Patricia Bay can be used by TCA's transcontinental aircraft if Vancouver "socks in." Two runways are 5,000 feet long, one 5,030 feet.

Cypriot Riots Leave 3 Dead, Hundreds Hurt

ATHENS (AP)—Greek mobs inflamed by the impending execution of two Greek-Cypriot terrorists burned a Union Jack in Athens' main square, attacked the U.S. information service office and demonstrated against Britain today in riots which left two killed and 120 injured.

Police said rioters opened fire on them, which led to an exchange of bullets, in addition to stoning and clubbing.

Police headquarters said 80 demonstrators and 40 police were injured, some with bullet wounds. Hospitals reported two dead.

NICOSIA, Cyprus (Reuters)—British troops charged with clubs and fired over the heads of shouting demonstrators in Limassol today, shortly after a British officer was killed in a separate outbreak at Paphos. Violence and fears of a major anti-British revolt wracked this Mediterranean island colony as Greek Cypriots demonstrated against Tuesday's decision to execute two convicted terrorists.

airport manager, said today it would be up to TCA to make representations to Ottawa if it was thought necessary to increase runway length.

TCA's present equipment on the Victoria-Vancouver flights, DC-3's, will be retained in service for "at least two years," Wallace Courtney, TCA district sales manager, said today.

"There is no more efficient machine for frequent service in sight at present," he said.

He pointed out that planes capable of carrying heavier loads than the present aircraft aren't needed on the short, frequent service.

"We can run extra sections at peak travel periods," he said. North Stars and Viscounts are occasionally used on the run, when needed and available.

The American-built planes, Douglas DC-8's, will be powered by British Rolls-Royce Conway turbo-jet engines. Costing some $5,500,000 each, the aircraft will represent an investment of nearly $28,000,000 with spare parts.

The jets are scheduled for delivery early in 1960 and will be available to service long-haul trans-Atlantic and trans-continental routes later this year.

CAN CARRY 150

Capable of carrying 120 passengers and three tons of cargo, the DC-8 will cruise at about 350 miles an hour at about 35,000 feet, an airline statement said.

The four-jet planes would be capable of flying from Montreal to London in six hours and 10 minutes.

Provision for weather-detecting radar and all the latest improvements will be standard on all DC-8's, TCA said. Certain details regarding interior arrangements were being worked out with the manufacturer, the Douglas Aircraft Company Inc. of Santa Monica, Calif., but it was expected the aircraft will accommodate both first and tourist-class passengers.

Gregg Issues New Appeal To Seamen

MONTREAL (CP)—The Association of Lake Carriers today announced that wage negotiations have broken down and it faced the Seafarers' International Union with the challenge of a united front in a strike scheduled for Thursday.

E. Macaulay Dillon, counsel for the association, said the seven members of the association stand ready to deal with the union, but only as a group, although only two shipping companies are threatened with a strike by the SIU.

Mr. Dillon also disclosed that the association has informed the SIU that it considers "every contract understanding or undertaking" at an end because of the threatened strike action.

He said Labor Minister Gregg has directed a second plea to Hal Banks, SIU Canadian director, offering mediation in the dispute which involves in all 5,000 men aboard some 280 lake vessels.

EMPIRE STADIUM SITE FOR MASS BINGO GAME

VANCOUVER (CP)—A Burrard service club is planning what it expects to be the biggest mass bingo game ever held in Canada. The site will be 34,000-seat Empire Stadium.

Officials of the Lions Club Tuesday said all proceeds from the bingo, June 16, will go to charity. Two cars, one in the luxury category, will be on the list of prizes.

The club has taken out insurance in case of rain cancelling the affair.

Oakalla Rioters Face New Charge But Action Delayed Until Probe Of Convicts' Case by A-G

Three desperate criminals who held a razor to an Oakalla Prison guard's neck Monday night to win a review of their case may face further charges as a result of their actions.

Meanwhile prison authorities scattered the trio to different parts of the jail. Each is under special guard today.

Warden Hugh Christie disclosed he had moved two prisoners to another wing in the prison, and the third to a different cell in the west wing, where the trouble occurred.

A government legal official said today the three convicts "could be prosecuted" for threatening the life of guard Ernie Loveless.

Deputy Attorney-General H. Alan Maclean, who promised "under a certain amount of duress" to review the convicts' case, confirmed that charges could be laid.

But he said the A-G's department would not even consider the matter until the review of the False Creek beating case in which the three men were involved is completed.

MAY TALK TO GORDON

"Before any consideration is given in that regard, I intend to apply myself to my undertaking—to look into the case," said Mr. Maclean.

The trio, Robert Tremblay, 35, Marcel Frenette, 29, and Charles Talbot, 37, were convicted of the attempted murder of Charles Kinna in Vancouver's False Creek flats areas.

A key witness in their conviction, Robert Gordon, who is now serving time in Nelson provincial prison, may be personally interviewed by Mr. Maclean.

"I don't know yet," said the deputy A-G when asked whether he would discuss the case with Gordon. "It is possible."

Mr. Maclean will leave for Vancouver Friday to carry out part of the re-examination of the trio's case.

He divulged that Gordon has made statements to police officers and others, apart from his evidence in the trial of Frenette, Tremblay and Talbot.

Mr. Maclean said a statement taken from the three men by Vancouver Province city editor Bruce Larsen, who bargained for guard Loveless' life with an extra edition of his newspaper, has not yet been received.

"The newspaper phoned me. They said it was in yesterday afternoon's mail," said Mr. Maclean.

The deputy said two courses of action are possible in the case of prisoners who "misbehave."

"One, they can be prosecuted, and two, in addition, or substitution, they can be tried in warden's court."

The warden of a prison is provided with a set number of penalties he can impose on unruly prisoners.

100,000 See England Beat Brazil Eleven

WEMBLEY, Eng. (UP)—Tommy Taylor and Colin Grainger each scored two goals but Stan Matthews, a veteran of scores of international soccer matches, drew the bulk of the cheers from a crowd of 100,000 today as England defeated Brazil, 4-2.

The 41-year-old Matthews, romping on the lush green turf of Wembley Stadium like a 20-year-old, set up both of Taylor's goals and one of Grainger's tallies.

H-BOMB AIRDROP DUE THURSDAY

If Big Bomb Dud It Can be Disarmed

By ELTON C. FAY
ENIWETOK ATOLL (AP)—Weapons experts waiting here for the world's greatest man-made explosion from the air are prepared to cope with the unlikely possibility that the scheduled shot should turn out to be the world's greatest dud.

The H-bomb explosion now is tentatively set for Friday morning (Thursday afternoon in Victoria) after having been delayed Tuesday for the third time because of unfavorable wind conditions.

In considering eventualities, the United States weapons expert said they are prepared to handle even the possibility that the nuclear weapon might plummet to earth without exploding after it leaves the B-52 Stratofortress bomber 50,000 feet in the air.

Commons Begins Sharp Battle On Big Project

OTTAWA (CP)—The government faces a bitterly hostile opposition in its coming attempt to win within a month parliamentary approval of a massive treasury loan to the long-delayed cross-Canada natural gas pipeline.

Liberal strategists already are considering whether the government should open the Commons.

Closure is a rarely-used parliamentary device to end prolonged debate and force a vote on a major controversial issue. Conservative and CCF parties have indicated they will put up an all-out delaying fight.

(Times Ottawa correspondent Victor J. Mackie reported this afternoon the Conservatives consider the pipeline loan as one of the best political issues ever handed to them by the St.

Laurent government. "They will fight the legislation every step of the way through Parliament," Mackie reported.)

Formal notice of Mr. Howe's resolution was printed on the Commons order paper today. Debate will start Thursday or Friday. This resolution must be adopted before the loan legislation is introduced.

Mr. Howe's resolution seeks authority for a total of $130,000,000 to be outstanding at any one time in federal loans and advances on the western and Ontario portions of the 2,200-mile line.

June 7 Deadline for House Action

Opposition leader Drew called the loan proposal "truly fantastic" and CCF leader Coldwell dared the government to call an election after hearing the proposal unveiled to the Commons Tuesday by Trade Minister Howe.

Mr. Howe said Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd., the private company holding the pipeline franchise, could complete this year the line's Alberta-to-Winnipeg section if Parliament ratifies the loan to it "within a reasonable time." Experts say June 7 is the deadline for parliamentary approval if work is to begin July 11.

The plan involves a federal loan for 90 per cent of the estimated $80,000,000 cost of the prairie leg of the 2,200-mile line to carry Alberta gas to Ontario and Quebec. The loan, at 5 per cent interest, would be for nine months to March 31, 1957. If Trans-Canada defaulted the government would take over the line.

The loan would be administered by the proposed northern Ontario pipeline crown corporation, initially designed to finance and administer the Northern Ontario link from the Manitoba border to Kapuskasing.

It would be the crown corporation, set up by the federal administration in co-operation with Ontario, which would take possession of Trans-Canada's assets in the event of default.

The northern Ontario link, which would be rented out to Trans-Canada, is estimated to cost about $118,000,000, of which about one-third would be put up by the Ontario government and the remainder by Ottawa.

HOWE JEERED

In the Commons Tuesday, Mr. Howe met jeers from Conservative and CCF benches as he outlined details of the loan.

Mr. Drew termed it subsidy on a grand scale and an attempt by Liberal members to bail Mr. Howe out of confusion into which he had plunged the government.

He appealed to Prime Minister St. Laurent for a Commons committee examination of the scheme and of possible alternatives.

Both Mr. Drew and Mr. Coldwell estimated that about 83 per cent of Trans-Canada is controlled by Americans.

"ENORMOUS PROFITS"

The CCF leader called for public ownership and said the present plan would mean "building enormous profits for U.S. private buccaners."

Mr. Coldwell challenged the government to take the issue to the voters now "to see what will happen to them."

"I am convinced, from correspondence and from people with whom I am in contact, that there was never a more unpopular proposition put before the people of Canada than this one is."

From the Social Credit party, however, came a tentative welcome to the plan. Victor Quek (SC, Acadia) said his party is glad an immediate start will be made. "The party would reserve further comment until it sees details of the measure."

800 Policemen Guard Winnie On German Visit

AACHEN, Germany (UP)—City authorities announced today some 800 policemen equipped with fire hoses will guard Winston Churchill against mob violence during his first post-war visit to Germany.

The 81-year-old former prime minister, who is this year's winner of Aachen's Charlemagne prize for aid to European unity, arrives by air from Britain today to receive the award.

His visit has aroused strong protests, spearheaded by young Nationalist hoodlums and "ex-pelles" from East Germany who charge Churchill bartered away their homes to the Communists at the fateful Yalta Conference.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

MERCIFUL GOD, we thank Thee today for those who minister to the sick in mind or body. We are grateful for the sense of dedication and high vocation which motivates our doctors and nurses. Give them continued patience, wisdom and understanding, and skill in all their ministrations; through Jesus Christ, Amen.

Newsman Tells Story Of 'Life Trade' Drama

By BRUCE LARSEN

Vancouver Province City Editor
VANCOUVER (CP)—Bob Tremblay, Marcel Frenette and Charlie Talbot went to the brink of murder Monday to gain assurance that "their story" will be told.

That story is basically a claim of monstrous frame-up.

I traded them this story for the life of a good Okalla officer.

As I promised Tremblay, I am undertaking to tell their story as accurately as I can. I insisted on my reservation to stay within the bounds of reason and the law.

Here is the story as it came from the three prisoners who held guard Ernie Loveless hostage. Some detail—at Tremblay's request—comes from another Okalla inmate who was convicted with them of the attempted murder of Thomas Kinna.

Some of their story, because we must stay within our privilege in law as a newspaper, cannot be told here. My undertaking there was that I would pass that part on to the attorney-general's office.

"We never had a fair trial," insisted Tremblay at the start of the half-hour interview that ended with Loveless' release.

"The fact is that we had a newspaper trial.

"We want a chance to get in the box—at the trial the lawyers advised us to stay out.

"We want the attorney-general to study what we have that didn't get into the courts—and decide if he should intervene—whether there is proper grounds to intervene.

"When that material is being considered by Mr. Maclean (deputy attorney-general Alan Maclean) we want Mr. Hill (Larry Hill, Tremblay's trial lawyer) present and we want Bruce Larsen there for newspapers. We want our stuff tested by points of law—nothing else.

"If they want us to testify—take us there.

"I'd rather not be present when Gordon (Robert Gordon, a Nelson, B.C., logger, testified against the prisoners at their trial) was there so he'll talk freely. I want it all done in B.C.

Tremblay several times repeated one comment:

"If we had wanted to escape from here we could have done it a dozen times. All I'm asking is that it go by law."

Tremblay said that he did not think that much weight should be given to the testimony of the analyst "about bloodstains on the back of my trousers and a grass stain on my knee the size of a baseball. He claims he burned the patches because they were useless. If that is evidence against us—where is it now?"

That in essence, is what Tremblay wanted said.

He wanted that published along with what I'd taken down earlier from Jimmy Malgren and from Charlie Talbot.

Tremblay had intended to wait until our newspaper was on the street with the story before he released Loveless. Persuasion that their case would be stronger if Loveless left then with me finally won out and the guard was freed.

KNOW YOUR TEACHER

In the belief that parents of children attending schools in the Greater Victoria area are interested in knowing about personalities of the teachers who educate them, The Times continues a series of "Know Your Teacher." The articles will appear three times a week. The Teachers' Association is co-operating.

Name it, and if it is a sport George Andrews has played it. Everything from table tennis and chess to diving, canoeing and football.

His background suits him admirably for the task of physical education director at Victoria High School, a full-time occupation.

Athletics take up so much of his time that he barely crowds in instructional periods on health and personal development prescribed by the course of studies.

Mr. Andrews was born in Victoria in 1917, attended Spring Ridge, George Jay and Victoria High schools before winning an athletic scholarship to the University of Oregon, where he took a BSc in physical education.

In 1942 he went into the RCAF, became a pilot and was attached to the RCN Fleet Air Arm on the east coast, and later served at Patricia Bay with 122 Co-operation Squadron. He left the air force in 1945 and worked a year for the provincial government.

Then for a year he played professional basketball with Vancouver Hornets, and decided to take a 12-month course in massage and hydro-therapy, which took him to Toronto.

On his return he went to the Alberni district to work in a MacMillan and Bloedel mill and while there decided to start teaching in the junior-senior high school, staying two years.

Since 1950 he has been at Victoria High, where he has close contacts. His brother Joe is a science and biology teacher, and principal Harry Dee was one of

GEORGE ANDREWS

George's teachers before he left Victoria High.

He also coaches senior basketball—the Totems—and assists with coach work for the track team. Outside school his main interest is basketball, a game he played at Oregon on the varsity team.

In fact, basketball was responsible for his winning the scholarship. He was among Canada's finest ball players.

Mr. Andrews took active part in all sports at school and at university, and still holds track records for the broad jump and shot put set for Victoria High in 1935.

He lives with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Andrews, 5121 Cordova Bay road.

Health Board To Decide On Raw Milk Sale

City Council health committee referred dairyman A. G. Lambbrick to Union Board of Health when he appeared at City Hall Tuesday with signatures representing 11,000 persons on Lower Vancouver Island wanting freedom to choose between raw and pasteurized milk.

He pointed out that provincial authorities had passed a bill making sale of raw milk illegal and the bill can be implemented at any time. Municipalities have the right to pass by-laws, however, permitting raw milk sales. He said small farmers lose about 40 per cent of their dairy income if forced to halt raw milk sales.

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP)—Former President Truman was 72 Tuesday but there was no birthday party at his home here. He and Mrs. Truman took an early morning train from Kansas City for New York, where they will sail aboard the liner United States Friday on a trip to Europe. Truman will receive an honorary degree from Oxford University June 20.

Officers said the fraud detectives are still investigating ramifications of the scheme which they said was in the form of a retirement fund. Some 40 witnesses will be heard in the case. They said individual investors lost between $500 and $9,000.

Florence was remanded for one week when he appeared in police court today. Lawyer David Silvers said he had no instructions to ask for bail.

Private Contractor Upsets Saanich Bid

Saanich council Tuesday received a last-minute surprise when a private contracting firm outbid the Saanich engineering department for the $220,000 waterworks program to be undertaken this year.

The tender submitted by Christian and Allan Ltd., of Ladner, was for $185,000, as compared with $217,028 bid of the municipality, representing a saving of $31,972.

Council will consider the bid at a special meeting next Monday.

The firm's bid arrived a day late due to the failure of the Royal Oak post office to turn over the letter to the municipal clerk on Monday when it should have been received by council.

Council will protest the delay to postal officials.

Reeve Arthur Ash said he was informed the letter was mailed Saturday and was in the post office for a whole day before given to the municipality.

The bid will be considered, he said, as the letter was mailed in time.

The firm's offer came as a surprise as council Monday accepted the engineer's department tender because no private contractor had submitted a bid for the work. Council believed private firms were not interested in the project.

IN PARLIAMENT

Who Pays for Booze At Big Conventions?

(From Times News Services)

When liquor flows freely in plush hotel suites at conventions, who pays the shot—some individual, a big corporation, or the general taxpayer?

That's the question on which the Commons adjourned Tuesday night with only a partial answer.

If an individual puts in an expense account for liquor for entertaining clients and prospective clients at a convention, said William Benidickson, parliamentary assistant to Finance Minister Walter Harris, he won't be able to get away with it as a tax credit.

But Mrs. Ellen Fairclough, Conservative member for Hamilton, Ont., who says she has attended a good many conventions in her career as a tax consultant and municipal council member, wondered about the big company suites maintained as public relations projects at many conventions.

A. M. "Sandy" Nicholson, CCF member for Mackenzie, Sask., and a prairie farmer, hinted that he thought the taxpayers of Canada were being asked to foot convention liquor bills, indirectly.

The question arose on a government proposal to allow anyone to deduct from his taxable income the expenses he incurred in attending one or two conventions a year in Canada, in connection with his business.

Nicholson said that while he wasn't a veteran convention-goer, he saw a lot of them at the Chateau Laurier hotel, a few hundred yards from Parliament Hill.

'Liquor Bill Must Be Terrific'

"The liquor bill that somebody must pay must be terrific," he said.

"Vouchers and receipts in detail, indicating the nature of the expenses for conventions, are required by the officials examining the tax returns in the department of national revenue," Benidickson said. "Nicholson can be sure that certain items such as those to which he referred would not be allowed."

"From long years of experience in attending conventions, mostly at my own expense," Mrs. Fairclough observed a few minutes later, "I do know that there is a vast difference between the representations at those conventions by individuals, and the attendance by employees of large corporations."

She asked whether a corporation—which, like an individual, is a taxpayer—could send "up to 25 people to a convention and still deduct the expense of plush suites and liquor, and all the things that go toward entertaining clients."

"Ellen!" commented Stanley Knowles, CCF whip and a United Church minister, in dismay. "Where have you been?"

Mrs. Fairclough said she had "suffered considerably" both on her own behalf and on behalf of her clients in having tax returns revised on convention expense accounts.

"It has always irked me somewhat," she said, "to have my clients penalized if they happen to be proprietors or professional people operating on their own account, and to know full well that large corporations were deducting precisely the same expenses manifold, and getting away with it all the way down the line."

Finance Minister Harris confirmed reports that details of a general round of tariff reductions negotiated at Geneva will be announced within two or three weeks.

Debate was adjourned without decision on a bill that would ask the civil service commission to give preference to bilingual job applicants. It was opposed by State Secretary Pinard, who said he could not agree that bilingualism should take preference over the competence of civil service job seekers.

Final approval was given to a bill amending the Canadian Citizenship Act in several minor ways.

Citizenship Minister Pickers-gill dropped one proposed change which would have widened application of Canadian citizenship in cases of illegitimate children.

Final approval was given to a government bill to increase lending power of the crown-owned industrial development bank by boosting from $50,000,000 to $75,000,000 the amount available for business loans of more than $200,000.

nounced willingness to subsidize "foreigners" in construction of the pipeline.

CCF leader Coldwell had said earlier that the pipeline company is 83.5-per-cent owned by U.S. investors.

Solicitor-General Macdonald said Tuesday night greater use should be made of probation in Canada's penal system but he added that this is a provincial-municipal responsibility.

The government leader in the Senate spoke in a continuing senate debate on penal reform. He said he is vitally interested in the question because he is the man who rules on applications for parole by prisoners in federal penitentiaries.

"I think we all agree that there should be much greater use made of probation in Canada than has been the case up to this time," he said, "and I think we also agree that we should examine very carefully the situation as to the large population of our penal establishment."

The federal government has no knowledge of any proposals by Canadians to build the South Saskatchewan River power and irrigation project, Prime Minister St. Laurent said Tuesday.

He was replying to Allister Stewart (CCF, Winnipeg North) following the government announcement that it is prepared to loan Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd. money to build the western leg of the Alberta-to-Montreal natural gas pipeline.

Mr. Stewart had asked whether the government is prepared to subsidize Canadians to build the Saskatchewan river project in view of its just-an-

Socred Challenge In Sask. Drafted

Industrialization of Province By Private Enterprise Advocated

REGINA (CP)—A platform for Social Credit's first major bid in a Saskatchewan election for nearly 20 years was adopted Tuesday by a party convention here as Premier T. C. Douglas set the election date at June 20.

A major plank advocates industrialization of the province through private enterprise, with opposition to expropriation of any industry as now permitted under the Crown Corporation Act.

The Social Credit party, with 33 of its intended 53 candidates already named as its biggest slate since the 1938 elections when it was defeated, also would:

Encourage development of natural resources by private enterprise and make an "orderly withdrawal" from the compulsory marketing of natural resources.

Eliminate compulsory payment of premiums for hospital insurance. Instead, when a person enters hospital he would pay $1 a day up to a maximum of $20 a year. The family maximum would be $40.

Hold a plebiscite to enable the people to decide whether they wish rural electrification carried out under public ownership or private enterprise;

Study Burden on Ratepayer

Set up a committee to study the structure of existing educational administrative services and to find ways and means of lessening the burden carried by the property taxpayer;

Provide a low-cost competitive public liability and property damage policy of automobile insurance and a competitive package policy. The necessary public liability and property damage protection would be bought privately or from the government before licences are issued.

Abolish the system of 33-year leases for Crown lands and replace it with a homestead lease and a purchase agreement.

Establish leases to protect municipalities against tax losses.

Bring old-age pensions and supplementary allowances in line with those paid by Alberta and British Columbia "as progressively as farmers allow."

Joseph Tauberger, president of the Saskatchewan Social Credit League, said many of the planks in the platform intentionally were left unspecified. They would be modified after election of a Social Credit government and as circumstances dictated.

The CCF and Liberals will have full slates of candidates.

while the Progressive Conservative party so far has named only seven candidates.

The Labor-Progressive party has 12 nominees.

The CCF slate contains several new nominees for seats from which members resigned because of age or poor health.

Attorney-General Corman was one of those who resigned.

The Liberal slate is expected to be completed within three weeks. Nominations close June 4.

Social Credit intends to complete its slate by June 1. The party will not name a provincial leader until after the election.

Standing in the last legislature, dissolved Tuesday by Lieutenant-Governor W. J. Patterson, was CCF 41, Liberals 10, Progressive Conservatives 1, and vacant 1.

Howell Powell Jeffreys, 55, guest house operator and active member of local musical circles, died suddenly Monday night at his home, 428 Vancouver street.

Born in South Wales, he had lived here since 1935. He was senior warden of St. Andrew's Lodge No. 49 AF & AM, and member of the Masonic, Welsh, and St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church choirs in the city.

Surviving are his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Jeffreys; three sisters, Mrs. Prudence McNeill, Victoria; Miss Catherine Jeffreys, at home; and Mrs. J. L. Veson, Edmonton; three brothers, Daniel and David Glyndwr, Victoria, and William Owen, in England.

Funeral will be held Friday at 3 p.m. in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church under Masonic auspices and cremation will follow. It has been requested no flowers be sent. McCall Bros. are in charge of arrangements.

Students' council and other extra-curricular activities at Royal Oak Junior-Senior High School profited by $800 collected at a carnival staged by students and staff Friday.

Events included sales of home cooking and novelties, movies, clown acts, and a jitney dance.

"I think we all agree that there should be much greater use made of probation in Canada than has been the case up to this time," he said, "and I think we also agree that we should examine very carefully the situation as to the large population of our penal establishment."

Later, Mr. Regier told a reporter the money disappeared while Mr. Goodship's daughter, Laurel, was looking after the post office during her father's absence.

The federal government has no knowledge of any proposals by Canadians to build the South Saskatchewan River power and irrigation project, Prime Minister St. Laurent said Tuesday.

He was replying to Allister Stewart (CCF, Winnipeg North) following the government announcement that it is prepared to loan Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd. money to build the western leg of the Alberta-to-Montreal natural gas pipeline.

Mr. Stewart had asked whether the government is prepared to subsidize Canadians to build the Saskatchewan river project in view of its just-anounced willingness to subsidize "foreigners" in construction of the pipeline.

CCF leader Coldwell had said earlier that the pipeline company is 83.5-per-cent owned by U.S. investors.

Solicitor-General Macdonald said Tuesday night greater use should be made of probation in Canada's penal system but he added that this is a provincial-municipal responsibility.

The government leader in the Senate spoke in a continuing senate debate on penal reform. He said he is vitally interested in the question because he is the man who rules on applications for parole by prisoners in federal penitentiaries.

Mrs. Herbert Anscomb Dies; Rites Saturday

Funeral service for Mrs. Annie M. Anscomb, prominent Victoria church worker and wife of former finance minister Herbert Anscomb, will be held Saturday at 3 p.m. in St. Mary's Church, Oak Bay.

Mrs. Anscomb died Tuesday in Royal Jubilee Hospital.

A native of Victoria, she was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Brooker, and she married Herbert Anscomb in 1925. Mrs. Anscomb devoted much of her time to St. Mary's Church Guild library work and to gardening at her home 356 Newport. She attended Girls' Central School, and graduated from there.

She was a patron of Victoria Symphony Orchestra and before her marriage was herself an accomplished violinist.

Her husband has been reeve of Oak Bay, and mayor of Victoria.

Taxes Continue Up

VICTORIA, OAK BAY AND Saanich have struck their 1936 tax rates. Esquimalt is about to. In the first three, rates are up. In the latter there is still a hope of holding the line.

Rising costs of education and labor are the chief causes of higher charges against the taxpayer. And school expenses may be expected to continue up because the school population is increasing. Beyond that, municipal charges will be greater as more and more items in the public works accounts, cut back this year, have to be met in the future.

This is the situation facing municipalities in the Greater Victoria region. These are the units of government closest to the people. The municipalities, moreover, are the children of the Provincial Government. Their taxation sources are limited and today they, and other municipalities elsewhere, are confronted by major financial problems while the British Columbia and Federal Governments enjoy surpluses.

The municipalities need help—and they need more help than has been given to them by the formula introduced by Mr. Bennett last year and revised in minor particulars this year.

Conceivably that is a factor in the premier's nebulous statements on plans to help the home-owner by a proposed tax payment up to the levy due on the first $1,000 or $2,000 of assessed value.

As noted in these columns before, Mr. Bennett's proposal would probably help to redistribute taxes to the benefit of the small-home-owner. At the same time it would not provide over-all relief for all people. What the province may pay towards the individual's municipal taxes—if that is the premier's plan—would have to come originally from the taxpayers. In other words taxpayers as a whole would merely be paying out of one pocket instead of the other.

Is this the best the Provincial Government can do to solve a problem of mounting intensity? Are municipal governments, as distinguished from the voting residents they represent—and such voters mark ballots provincially as well as municipally—offered a satisfactory deal under the scheme outlined in general terms by the premier?

Equalization of assessment last year was supposed to iron out certain inequalities in the municipal tax basis. Presumably that objective was realized. At the same time, in this community, municipal councils found that they had to raise more money by taxes than ever before.

This year, as rates are being struck, still greater amounts are required—and this after councils have worked industriously to economize.

In broad outline the general municipal picture emerges as one of heavier financial burdens. They may be lessened for some individuals by Mr. Bennett's proposed plan. Certainly all individuals will not benefit. And the municipalities—unless later details change the situation—stand to derive virtually no benefits at all.

Not Bucking the Tide

MR. TIM BUCK, LEADER OF the communists in Canada, has at last eaten his humble pie, swallowed his pride, chewed his words and undergone other processes tending to produce political indigestion.

The man who said at Joseph Stalin's death that "tears would run in the streets" if Canadians only realized their loss, the man who hailed the deceased leader as all that suffering humanity could wish for, the man who owned to lifelong admiration of and devotion to the boss of the Kremlin, now admits it was all a mistake.

There has been considerable amused speculation as to how Tim Buck was going to climb off the limb onto which he had crawled. For the cheers of his followers, roused by his public adulation of Stalin, were still echoing when the Moscow party line was abruptly changed. Within a matter of hours Stalin became Russia's officially most-hated man. Tim had either to fight the Kremlin over the point, or knuckle under. He recently returned from the fount of wisdom in Moscow and the results of his quaffing were revealed in Toronto in a May Day speech.

His party erred, says Mr. Buck. "Support of Stalin was a mistake. We joined in the great error in which Stalin's word was accepted without question."

So now Mr. Buck and his supporting popinjays are setting off courageously on the new tack, secure in the knowledge of their new rightness, but ready to abandon it immediately, of course, if Moscow so directs.

The average Canadian must wonder how anyone could sponsor such nonsense in a country like Canada, much less join a movement for its propagation. Mr. Khrushchev himself, when External Affairs Minister Pearson visited him a few months ago, could not understand why the Canadian Government permitted the communists to conduct their activities here. When the Canadian explained that it was a part of democracy to guarantee political freedom to all, Mr. Khrushchev grunted that Canada ought to wipe out such agitators overnight.

It must be hard on the nerves to be a communist.

For the Benefit of All

ONE OF THE MOST POPULAR juvenile movements seen here in recent years is the teen-age baseball leagues that have been sponsored by various local organizations.

This summer some 700 boys, from the under-twelves up to 18-year-olds, are turning out for scheduled games in five different leagues. The adult work behind the scenes is all voluntary—a display of community consciousness that sets a high example to others.

The benefits of such organized sport are incalculable. There are entertainment and exercise that accompany the games, the teamwork and team spirit that are necessary for every boy. But there is also the more far-reaching effect obtained by providing a healthful activity in good surroundings, a "boys' community" project that keeps youngsters off the street corners and away from youths whose horizons are bounded by the something-for-nothing philosophy.

The local service clubs and all the other worthy individuals and groups who have made these leagues possible have earned a debt of gratitude from the community. But it is not one on which they are likely to demand payment. For without exception the men and women who have aided the teams would admit that they are receiving back in personal satisfaction enough to repay their expenditure of time, effort and money. They are making an investment from which both old and young will benefit.

CCF-Magnet Losing Strength

MR. WILLIAM MOORE OF COMOX is the third CCF member in recent weeks to announce that he will not be the party's candidate in the next provincial election. He is the fourth not expected to run again.

Mr. Rupert Hagen, of Grand Forks, has been in seriously ill health for some time and may understandably withdraw before nominations are filed.

Mr. Arnold Webster, Leader of the Opposition, made known his intentions shortly after the last session of the Legislature. He will return to teaching, unwilling any longer to remain in politics despite the high esteem he earned in that field.

Mr. Vincent Segur, a retired railwayman of Revelstoke, presumably looks forward to more leisurely days.

Mr. Moore has not made public his reasons for withdrawing. They cannot, however, be based on grounds of health or advanced years. Mr. Moore is a vigorous young man.

For various reasons four members of the opposition will not seek re-election. The effect of their action will be seriously weakening to the CCF.

Under its new leadership the party may campaign vigorously, may find men and women highly suited to carry its banner to the public. But at this moment the CCF has insufficient appeal to keep nearly one quarter of its elected members interested in trying to remain in the Provincial Legislature as its standard bearers.

BY DAVID BROCK

REMEMBER Beverley Nichols? He began as a rather glib reporter... he would interview people, and then turn the interview into what the French call a chronicle... which in turn is a light version of what the New Yorker started us calling a profile. (And believe me, a good little chronicle can be more readable, and also more of a work of art, than the heavier types of profile.) For all I know, his chronicles were quite good. All I remember of them now is that when I was young they gave me a dull pain, because of an "oh, what a bright boy am I!" tone in them.

I should think too many people called him clever, and he began to believe them. At Oxford he had been President of the Union, which can be very bad for anyone with a tendency to make clever speeches. Anyhow, he became a sort of professional bright young thing. I had a young brother of about three whose favorite saying was "Clevah, clevah, awful clevah", referring to himself. The boy Beverley seemed to be singing the same song in his twenties.

AND he did other things... he changed from smartness to cuteness and then to slush, and while his books about his house and garden were enough to make a willow weep, they did at least provoke one of the most sustained parodies in modern times. This parody of Beverley Nichols' house and garden books is called "Mon Repos" by one alleged to be Nicholas Bevel, and it was published by John Lane (yes, it is a whole book) in 1934, and I am happy to say that for a while it sold like the best of hot cakes. And God bless Nicholas Bevel, whoever he was, and make him not too good a boy.

By the way, on the back of the jacket of "Mon Repos" are some reviews of a wholly imaginary companion volume, "Fishing Up the Village Brook", also by Nicholas Bevel. Some Press Opinions: "This is emphatically a book for the amateur angler," says Bait, while Grocer's Record says: "The author seems to have caught everything but a sardine." Home Psychologist says: "Delicious humor and avid observation. I trembled when I read of the loves of the stickleback." There were other quotations, including one from Stockbroker's Monthly, which says: "Mr. Nicholas Bevel deserves not only the salmon but the tin." On the whole, the one I enjoyed (and enjoy) most is from Time and Space (which I suppose is meant to be Time and Tide): "A book I could not lay down, so finally I lay down beside it."

AND then, after whimsy and slush in the garden, B. Nichols wrote some plays (musical and otherwise)... some of them, according to my own taste, being both at once). And he got religion, and he became a pacifist. Do you remember the book called "Cry Havoc" in the 1930s? It did as much as most other books did to soften up British public opinion, making rearmament impossible... or impossible in the eyes of cabinet ministers who sometimes appear to think that national suicide is preferable to political suicide any day.

It was books like "Cry Havoc" which helped to deafen England (and of course Canada) to the speeches of men like Churchill, who kept pointing at Hitler and at what he meant. Hitler told us himself what he meant, but if we had been reading "Cry Havoc" we wouldn't believe a silly man like Hitler. And I will bet you that "Cry Havoc" did a thousand times the damage done by such books as Aldous Huxley's Encyclopedia of Pacifism, because a thousand times as many people read it.

AND in spite of England's shocking lack of arms, due to public opinion, due to books like "Cry Havoc"... in spite of this nakedness, it would still have been possible to have stopped Hitler in 1936 when he marched into the Rhineland. But public opinion wasn't having any of that, either. Now I am not saying that Beverley Nichols created this public opinion single-handed. It must have been fat-headed to start with, or it would never have bought his books in such clusters. But I do maintain that he added enormously to the fat-headedness... to the confusion of thought of millions of young men and women who honestly believed their choice lay simply between "that awful old war" and "this nice new peace"... who believed it would be horrid to stop Hitler from entering what was, after all, his own Rhineland. Far from stopping a war, these young people were making one inevitable. And Beverley Nichols was one of the head cheer-leaders.

WELL, then, it was with something of a shock that I read this same Beverley Nichols writing the other day that Sir Anthony Eden is robbing the English of their fighting spirit, and that what we need is somebody like the Churchill of 1940. Gosh, how's that for a nice change? What Churchill said of Nichols in the 1933-38 era, I don't know, but it is easy enough to guess.

The reader may ask if I was any wiser than Nichols in the 1930s. It is hard to answer that without sounding like a booster and a wise guy. But surely it isn't much of a boast to have been a bit wiser than the more harmful elements of the 30s. I was in my 20s at the time, and writing nothing more than a diary, but his guesses were better than Nichols' were. Oh, yes, and in 1938 I did attempt to heckle William Joyce, later Lord Haw Haw, when he spoke on summer evenings in the Earl's Court Road, W. 8. My attempts didn't get very far. Public opinion told me I was a trouble-maker. Told me kindly, for my own good.

From Our Files

May 9, 1896—Both at Greenwood and Anaconda a great deal of building is going on. W. Powers staked a mill site on Boundary Creek last week. Mr. Tate, a C.P.R. engineer, is again in the district.

May 9, 1916—The Empire celebration two weeks hence will be held at Beacon Hill Park, the committee of trustees and principals decided at a meeting yesterday. Committee will report further on duties.

May 9, 1936—At the Capitol all this week is Gary Cooper in his latest Columbia movie, "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town." Playing opposite the actor is Jean Arthur. The action provides a number of amusing scenes.

As Our Readers See It

It Was Appreciated

May 1, through the columns of your paper, have the privilege of extending our thanks to the many generous Victoria people who opened their homes and I must add their hearts—to the members of our band who were billeted with them during the BCHS Band Conference. Our members were high in their praise for the way in which they were accorded such a cordial reception.

Our thanks go also to Mr. Howard Denike and excellent committees for their vast preparations. The magnitude of the undertaking was such that only the greatest co-operation made its success possible.

To clinicians who helped the students a special thank you. We, who had to travel 1,500 miles, were gratified to know we had received such worthwhile help, information and inspiration.

Mr. Drew's Speech

On Saturday your editorial entitled "When Conservatives Disagree" did not only distort what was said by the Hon. George Drew but the title itself was misleading in that it suggested a disagreement between Ontario Conservatives led by Mr. Frost and the Federal Conservatives by their national leader.

A clear answer to the allegation was given by Mr. Drew in his broadcast over the CBC network on April 20 last. I quote from the broadcast as follows:

"During the past week a great deal has been said about United States investment in Canada. There has been some suggestion that I am opposed to such investment. Nothing could be farther from reality. I think I must keep the record straight in this respect."

In a recent speech in Hamilton, to which some reference has been made, these were the exact words I used in regard to this subject: "We have welcomed investment from the United States and elsewhere. It has been largely responsible for the pace of our expansion within these past few years. Moreover we wish to continue the close bonds of friendship between this country and the United States which have offered such an encouraging example to the whole world."

"Surely those words are not open to misunderstanding. They represent the position I have taken at all times, personally, and on behalf of the Conservative Party. My own record in Ontario leaves no uncertainty on that point."

"In these troubled days the truly remarkable friendship between Canada and the United States is of supreme importance to all of us. With the free and easy movement of people in such enormous numbers between our two countries, we have established a personal and international friendship which is not found anywhere else."

"But close and intimate though that friendship may be, it can only be kept in good repair if it is considered in all its aspects. There are problems which do cause concern and the only way to avoid misunderstanding is to face those problems with complete frankness."

"What I was discussing in earlier speeches, and what I had intended to discuss in any event tonight, is the way in which we can avoid any misunderstanding in regard to a vitally important problem by friendly co-operation."

"In the speech to which reference has already been made I emphasized the fact that we do not want to see any barriers placed in the way of investment in Canada and I used those words, which I am glad to repeat. This is a problem which needs to be solved by our friends in the United States as well as by Canadians."

The mischief of your editorial lies, as stated, in the distortion of what has been said and in the poisonous inference that there is disagreement within the Conservative Party in connection with what has been a basic principle of that party ever since Confederation.

ROBERT D. HARVEY.

(Editor's note: The excerpts quoted by our correspondent hardly square with these, from the same Hamilton speech: "I believe that Canadians should declare their economic independence of the United States. I believe that political and economic independence go hand in hand... We are not going to be treated as though we were the 50th (sic) state of the United States... We must decide that we are not going to be hewers of wood, drawers of water and diggers of holes for any other country.")

The Rain Makers

There is every indication of a very dry and dangerous situation developing in B.C. forests through forest fires. Where are the hoarding rain makers? No one is going to try and dispute their ability to produce a little rain in the rainy season when there are plenty of clouds and moisture in the air.

Now that there are raging destructive forest fires burning up untold millions of feet of mature and young timber, where are the wonderful rain makers? We want them over our forest fires producing rain and saving our valuable forests.

Let us hear from them and show us results of their scientific rain making. Put out the forest fires then we will believe them.

FROM BAHREIN, PERSIAN GULF

By JOSEPH ALSOP

The Serpent's Tooth

ACCORDING to the guide book, this sunbaked, sandy little island with its coastal fringe of date palms is "an independent Arab state ruled by his Highness Sheikh Sir Salman bin Hamad al-Khalifah." As will be seen, the guide book stretched a point.

In this, its opening sentence: On the other hand, the guidebook's next assertion cannot be challenged. Until the ingenious Mr. Mikimoto put oysters to work in an orderly manner, pearls made the prosperity of Bahrain for something close to three thousand years. But now, the island is "better known for its oil field and refinery."

For the intelligent sightseer, indeed the most interesting historical monuments in Bahrain are two spy, shrewd and generous-hearted Americans who live here in the midst of a vast garden full of magnificent white, rose and crimson oleanders.

Ed and Irene Skinner were not always bower dwellers. They had inhabited a little hut in the island's blazing desert interior for nearly a year, when they triumphantly brought in Bahrain's first oil well back in 1932.

That single wildcat well opened up the whole vast Persian Gulf oil field, that now includes Arabia, Kuwait, and Qatar. If Ed and Irene Skinner had not taken their chance in the desert, the pattern of the free world economy would look very different today.

Other Notable Sights

But his Highness the Sheikh and the oil and the Skimmers are by no means the only notable sights of Bahrain. There are also Sir Charles and Lady Belgrave.

Back in 1926, when they were just married and he was looking for a new job, Charles Belgrave answered an advertisement in the personal column of The Times of London announcing that there was "an opening for young man o' public school education" who was fitted to serve as "financial adviser to an oriental ruler."

The oriental ruler turned out to be the father of the present Sheikh of Bahrain. He liked shooting gazelle and taking his Persian falcon out after bustard more than the weary business of ruling. Hence most of the authority over Bahrain's 140,000 people was presently concentrated in the adviser, as they oddly call it—the big, old fashioned, verandahed house on the waterfront where Charles Belgrave lives and does his work.

More Education

When Ed Skinner found his oil, Charles Belgrave saw to it that the oil money was used wisely and well. Hospitals went up. Roads were built.

Electricity was provided for the towns and villages. The port was improved. Above all, schools were established in great numbers, and education for girls was even introduced with Lady Belgrave to run this part of the program. In all these respects, Bahrain was far ahead of all the other oil rich states on the Persian Gulf.

The schools, one suspects, made the trouble. To be sure, there has always been some tension between the ruling clan, the al-Khalifahs who are Sunni Muslims and Arabs from the mainland, and their poorer subjects who belong to a mixed island stock and adhere to the Shia sect. But Bahrain has never seen anything to compare with the crisis of these last few weeks.

The townspeople first stoned the car of the visiting British Foreign Secretary, Selwyn Lloyd, shouting "down with Belgrave." Then, a few days later, there was another, even more serious riot that led to police shootings and a general strike.

These grave disorders were the outcome of the agitation of the "Committee of National Unity."

The committee is largely composed of bazaar merchants in a small way of business. It is intimately linked with and strongly supported by the Egyptian government of Gamal Abdel Nasser. It is anti-British and determined to wrest power for the people from His Highness the Sheikh and his British adviser.

The whole power of the committee is based on political consciousness created in Bahrain by the schools the Sheikh and his British adviser have built. Thus, when you talk with these two kindly, well-intentioned men, you find yourself constantly remembering the line from "Lear," "How sharper than a serpent's tooth it is to have a thankless child."

Object of Attack

Yet the irony of the situation in Bahrain goes even deeper than this. Sir Charles Belgrave, who is not a British government official, is only the immediate object of attack.

The real, eventual aim of the Bahrain nationalists is to drive out Britain from the special position it has occupied here for more than a century. But the British Government's representatives here are hard at work trying to obtain concessions to the New Bahrain democracy from the Sheikh. Their greatest problem is the ruling family's desire to deal with the nationalist agitators with a strong, harsh hand.

Altogether, the situation in Bahrain would make good material for the most sardonic sort of political comedy, if the humor were not rather ruined by the fact that the oil which bulks so large in the drama just happens to be the lifeblood of the free world.

The Deserted House

Back from the roadside an old house stands,

Like an aged woman with empty hands; Patiently waiting the long day through For a face and voice that once she knew; And when storms beat wildly around her frame,

In fancy I hear her murmur a name.

Her children, too, now to manhood grown,

Laughing had gone and left her alone; The days of her youth before her rise, As a vision she sees them—smiles, and sighs;

She dreams of scenes she can never forget, And she asks: "Do my children remember me yet?"

Oh, yes, when the night is dark and still, And the moon comes smiling above the hill,

When the mists from the valley float and stir,

Is then her children return to her; Through the door they rush with careless glee,

Into her arms and around her knee.

From room to room they run and race, Up and down stairs in a merry chase; But never a voice is heard to call,

Or even the sound of a foot to fall... Look! Sun up! No longer they stay The children have hidden themselves away.

—Edna McLeod.

Some Have Perfect Pitch

LONDON—How early should you start a child off on music lessons? The Hon. Gerald Lascelles—the Queen's cousin, son of the Princess Royal—believes they should be started early. His son Henry isn't yet three but the lessons have started.

One can be sure that the boy's musical education won't be in the classical mould, for his father is one of Britain's leading jazz fans. The Lascelles have just moved into Fort Belvedere, where the Duke of Windsor lived in the days before he was the Duke of Windsor and from where he made his abdication speech. One of the rooms at Fort Belvedere has been made over to house Lascelles' more than 2,000 jazz records. Classical records? "I haven't got any," he confesses.

Reyburn

Young Henry has been exposed to music from birth, which is undoubtedly a good idea. One never knows how early musical talent will show itself in a youngster. I remember talking to Nancy Weir, the concert pianist, about this. In her young days in Australia a man selling sheet music came to the front door and her father said to him: "No, thanks. Nobody here plays the piano."

"But who's that at the piano now?" asked the salesman. "Oh, that's just my three-year-old daughter," said her father. The salesman, thinking he was getting the brush-off, was not content until he was taken inside to be shown the toddler picking out chords at the piano.

The point about Nancy Weir was that she was born with perfect pitch, i.e., you can sound any note and she can tell you what it is. People with perfect pitch are not common. The average person can train himself to recognize any given note—but only in relation to other notes around it. For instance, if you've got any feeling for music, here's something you can teach yourself to do. Ask someone to run his finger along the white notes of the piano. Then get him to strike one of them singly. You'll find that with practice you'll be able to name the note every time. Reason: his running his finger along the white notes establishes the key of C in your mind and it is not difficult to figure out where in the scale that single note fits.

But people with perfect pitch don't need such preliminary prompting. They can pick notes out of the blue. I remember once walking through the piano department of a store with Nancy Weir. Without her seeing, I flicked a note on one of the pianos. On a neighboring piano she played the same note. One could put both fists on the keys of a piano and she could name every note in the resultant discord. After one visit to a musical film she could come home and play the entire score.

Although some may feel that before three is rather young for the Hon. Gerald Lascelles to get his son going on music, I'm completely in agreement. Who knows? The youngster might have perfect pitch, he might be a genius at the piano or some other instrument. (Nancy Weir gave her first concert at five.) If there is talent there, the thing is to hop in early.

I recall that at school I used to be lured by the fact that I was made to participate in all sorts of things that I had no feeling to get involved in.

"But," said my wise schoolmaster, "we expose you to all these things because, without knowing it, you may have in you to be a sensational hurdle-jumper or an outstanding choral singer."

In music, if there is a talent there, it is a terrible waste not to nurture it early.

SEEING PINK GEESE? NO NEED TO KEEP MUM

EDMONTON (CP)—Persons seeing pink or green geese need not doubt their eyesight, says R. A. Lister, department of zoology, University of Alberta. The birds have been dyed with rhodamine "B" by California scientists to trace their migration to breeding grounds. The chemical spray will remain on the birds until moulting occurs in September. Three were reported Monday by an Edmonton woman who thought she had seen swans.

End of Nationalism Pearson's NATO Goal?

By DAVE MCINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer
OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson, cold war idea man for NATO, may recommend some form of supranationalism for the Atlantic community.

Mr. Pearson made several references to supranationalism in a speech at London April 30 before he attended the Atlantic council meeting in Paris. The meeting selected him, Foreign Minister Lange of Norway and Foreign Minister Martino of Italy as a committee of Three Wise Men to draft a report on how NATO might expand beyond a purely military alliance.

Mr. Pearson had no advance warning that he would be selected and had no time to consult with his cabinet colleagues by telephone. But he should find it easy to work with Mr. Lange and Mr. Martino.

Mr. Lange is a close friend of the Canadian minister, probably his closest in NATO. And Mr. Pearson and Mr. Martino have for some time expressed similar views on the need for enlarging the scope of NATO to take in the political and economic spheres.

A small staff may be set up in the external affairs department here to assist Mr. Pearson in making his report. The three foreign ministers will probably exchange ideas by letter before meeting to draft a final report, which may be ready by this fall.

It is interesting to note that Mr. Pearson told the English Speaking Union in London.

At one point, he said: "Our ultimate destiny—to safeguard our very existence—may require some form of federalism on a regional or even a wider basis. But meanwhile we have to work with the institutions which exist today and attempt to adapt them for the more ready and efficient and equitable solution of our current problems."

THEY GET AROUND IN GOOD COMPANY, these lovely new tulips, blooming now at Christiansen's. Come out to 3945 Saanich Road this evening and place your order for fall delivery. You will be proud (and so will we) to say "they came from Christiansen's," where for over 17 years only the best quality available has been sold. They are priced right, too. No one ever regretted buying quality. Two blocks west of Lake Hill Community Centre. Douglas-Beckwith bus passes the door.

Damaged Warships Limp Into Norfolk
NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—The battleship Wisconsin and the escort destroyer Eaton, heavily damaged when they collided off the Virginia capes Sunday, have arrived here for extensive repairs. The 45,000-ton Wisconsin, with 30 feet of her bow smashed, reached port Monday under her own power. The 2,100-ton Eaton, with a 20-foot gash in her starboard side from main deck to waterline, had to be towed in stern-first for drydocking.

The Victoria Diabetic Association will meet at 8 p.m. Friday in the auditorium of the nurses' residence at St. Joseph's Hospital, to hear a discussion by a panel of dietitians.

YOUR HEALTH

Hydrophobia Can Be Cured

Dr. Alvarez is Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine Mayo Foundation

Always in the past, if a person got hydrophobia following the bite of an animal, he was doomed; he died with great suffering. I was recently reading in a news magazine that in the Near East one night a rabid wolf came into a village and bit 29 persons. In the case of a boy, a tooth of the wolf went through his thin skull and into his brain. In the past, such a wound would have made the situation absolutely hopeless. Actually, little Golan had his meningitis cured by penicillin, and then his rabies was cured by a new serum. Of 13 persons who got this serum plus the old Pasteur vaccine, only one died, and he had had only a single shot of the serum. We now know that in the worst cases of rabies, the new serum can be life-saving. The old vaccine does not give good protection until the 19th day, and this may be too late. By this time the deadly virus may have reached the brain and started to kill the patient.

DDT APPARENTLY HARMLESS TO MAN

At a recent meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, Drs. W. L. Hayes, Jr., W. F. Durham, and C. Cueto, Jr., of the U.S. Public Health Service of Savannah, reported that each day for a year, 14 men volunteers had taken DDT in order to see if it would do harm. Some of them had eaten every day 200 times the amount that an average person is likely ever to get in his diet from residues left on fruits and vegetables that had been sprayed with the insect-killer. Apparently, the stuff was harmless because none of the volunteers developed any symptoms.

THE HOXEY CANCER TREATMENT

In the newspapers I read that George P. Larrick, Commissioner of Food and Drugs for the U.S. Government, has issued a warning to the press, physicians, schools, consumers and other interested groups, saying that the Hoxey treatment for internal cancer is worthless; that it represents a gross deception of the patient, and it can be dangerous if it is used by persons who could still have their cancer cured by surgery, x-rays, radium, or some other treatment.

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

In a recent issue of Life are pictures of Food and Drug Commissioner Larrick and of Harry Hoxey. According to this article, the patients pay up to $460 for their treatment. Some 8,000 sufferers go every year, and from them Hoxey is said to gross $1,500,000.

The U.S. Federal Drug Administration some time ago forbade Hoxey to ship his medicine across state lines, because analysis had shown that it consisted of potassium iodide and cascara sagrada, two ancient drugs not likely to cure cancer or anything else—except constipation. According to the article, this ruling did not bother Hoxey who went on shipping his medicine. Now there is a Hoxey Clinic in Portage, Pennsylvania, which, according to the article, has grossed $241,000 in its first year.

As I have often said, if I had ever wanted much money, without regard for how I got it or what my friends thought of me, I would long since have advertised that I could cure cancer. Within a few years I could doubtless have been a millionaire. Why? Because there are so many desperate people who, when they find that no good physician will offer them any hope, will go to anyone who says he can and will work a cure. Of course, the guarantee is of no value because, in my 50 years of practice, I never heard of anyone getting his money back from an advertising doctor.

THE SEARCH FOR TREATMENT OF CANCER

It should cheer many persons who now feel that too little is being done in research for cancer to know that Surgeon-General Leonard A. Scheele, of the U.S. Public Health Service has just announced that, beginning July 1, contracts will be let to prepare for the testing of 2,000 chemicals which may possibly have value in the treatment of cancer. These tests will be made on strains of mice which carry cancer.

This should be an answer to all those dozens of persons who recently wrote me rather angrily or sadly, claiming that we physicians are not interested in testing cures for cancer, and that the only worthwhile work being done on cancer today is being done by cruel and mercenary quacks, who keep their so-called remedy secret. If a physician were to find a cure for cancer he, of course, would immediately give it freely to the world; but the quacks always keep their remedy secret so that they can make thousands of dollars a month out of it.

Chase River Okays $45,000 Water Plan

NANAIMO—Trustees of Petlogh water district, which includes the Chase River residential area, have approved a $45,000 money-by-law to build a water system for 80 to 100 potential customers in the area.

The by-law needs the approval of provincial government officials in Victoria before it can be put to a vote and money borrowed for the scheme.

Special Shrub Pruning Needed

The regular pruning on the shrubs which normally bloom in early spring will need to be adjusted this year to suit conditions.

One of the earliest bloomers, Viburnum tinus (laurustinus) produced few, and in most cases, no, flowers this year. Indeed, pruning in most cases will consist of cutting out all the dead wood. There may be a little green wood at the base, and this will shoot now.

Forsythia in many gardens did not flower at all, and for a time the shrubs appeared to be in bad shape. Most have now recovered and produced a mass of new growth. Pruning should consist of cutting out really old branches down to the base.

Kerria is another shrubby plant which appeared to have been completely killed. There have been no flowers and no leaf growth, but new shoots are at last appearing from the base. Now we may cut back all the old wood to ground level. The new growth being produced will give flowers next spring.

The two white spiraeas, S. van Houttei and S. Thunbergii, both blossoming in spring, may have old branches cut out to ground level after flowering. These shrubs grow profusely from the base and soon become overcrowded, tangled and messy. By thinning out the weakest and the oldest branches to the base each spring, new growth will have a chance to get light.

air and nourishment and produce abundance of bloom. Graceful shrubs, with bountiful bloom, result from knowing just when and how to prune.

Williams, Smith College Leaders

Oak Bay, City Students Top
Second and First-Year Classes

Four Victoria College scholarship students, who led exam results Tuesday, will add to their laurels in June when 1956 bursaries are awarded.

In second year class was Timothy A. Williams (96.1 per cent). Gael H. Stott was second with 92.8 per cent.

Highest marks in first year classes were obtained by A. J. Stewart Smith (95.6), and Marlene R. Hunt, who averaged 89.9 per cent.

MAIL TONIGHT

College officials said individual subject marks will be mailed to night and those students in the city area should receive them Thursday.

The big four in academic standing were consistent with previous years in high achievement.

Timothy A. Williams, 18, an Oak Bay High graduate, ranked second in first year Victoria College results but was provincial leader and winner of the Governor-General's medal in his final high school results.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Williams, he majors in history and plans to continue his education at UBC. He plans to teach history at university level.

Gael Stott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Stott, 1949 Crescent, was first year college leader in 1955 and was third highest in province in matriculation from Oak Bay High School the year previous.

Miss Stott will enter UBC at Vancouver aiming at her BA and MA with honors in zoology then biochemistry with intent to research or teach zoology at university.

A. J. Stewart Smith, 17, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. ## R. W. Alexander Buried Today At Mill Bay

MILL BAY—Funeral services were held at St. Francis Xavier Roman Catholic Church here today for Robert Woodcock Alexander, 41, who died Monday at Duncan.

Born in Victoria, he had lived here for 17 years and was laundry manager at Queen Alexandra Solarium.

Surviving are his widow, Ellen; two sons, John and Patrick, and a daughter, Nancy, all at home; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Alexander, Victoria; two sisters, Mrs. Fred Archer and Mrs. Fred Hebdon, Victoria.

Interment took place in the churchyard cemetery.

Bringing Up Baby

HINTS COLLECTED BY Mrs. New Yorker
(MOTHER OF 3)

Best ounce of prevention against those new-mother blues we hear so much about, is a well-planned "conservation program" to get back your strength. A well-rested mother is a better mother, both from the standpoint of vitality and disposition. Secret of staying off fatigue is to rest before you're plumb tuckered out. A coffee break now and then—a cat nap while baby naps—or a leisurely tub will so rejuvenate you that a chore won't seem a bore, and you'll accomplish twice as much.

Off to a solid start. Chances are the first spoon-fed food recommended for your new baby will be cereal. You'll find Gerber Five Cereal Variety a big help for those first tries with solid food. Rice, Barley, Oatmeal, Wheat and Mixed Cereal make it easy to introduce cereal variety to baby. Gerber Cereals are notable for bland but distinctive flavors—all five are pre-cooked and fortified with iron, calcium and B-vitamins.

2 blanket rules. (1) New receiving blankets can be easily de-fuzzed if you rinse 'em 2 or 3 times before using. (2) When buying crib blankets, get two in the same color. When baby graduates to a larger bed, stitch the two together.

Early addition to the infant diet—orange juice—for the vitamin C so vital to sound gums and body tissues. Gerber Strained Orange Juice is made from tree-ripened fruit, selected for high vitamin-C content, mild flavor and appealing color. Gerber-Ogilvie Baby Foods, Limited, Niagara Falls, Canada.

Saanich Taxes Up 2 Mills As Budget Hits New High

Saanich council Monday set the 1956 mill rate at 31.5 mills for school district 61 (inner) and 31 mills for district 63 (outer).

The rate is two mills higher than last year, and will mean taxpayers will pay an additional $2 per $1,000 of taxable assessment.

The budget approved by council was $2,427,907, the highest ever. It represents a $743,096 increase over the 1955 budget which was $1,879,254.

Value of a mill this year is $14,948, compared to $37,000 last year.

SCHOOL COSTS UP

Estimates show that rising school costs are mainly responsible for the increased mill rate. In school district 61 the mill rate increased from 13.19 to 14.65 and in district 63 from 13.6 to 14.5.

This represents an over-all school cost hike of 1.46 mills.

Council reduced the original budget by a half mill by drawing $27,000 from its 1955 $100,000 surplus budget to pay for a new fire pumper.

Police department estimates of $118,182 were approved by council.

The contingency fund was fixed at $35,000.

Council this year was faced with providing new equipment and repairs to fire trucks for the fire department which represented considerable expenditures.

Mr. Ronald Grant said council would be taking a serious risk if it did not take steps to improve the fire equipment which a fire report showed was below standard.

He pointed out that the Ten Mile Point area depends on a 1938 model truck which is continually breaking down. At three or four miles an hour and Elk lake, he said, one fire was continually in need of a truck could only travel between repairs.

SILENT SKIPPER

The skipper of the 38-foot fishing craft Frontier I sits on the rail of his vessel and refuses to talk with reporter after the ship ran aground 40 miles west of Vancouver. The skipper, who declined to give his name, stuck with the Frontier I after it was lashed to the side of a tug and towed to Nanaimo, B.C. He suffered cuts about the head and face in the grounding. The Frontier I is registered in the name of Victor Wilkman of Vancouver.

AROUND AND ABOUT

With Jo Healy

CAYCUSE—I'd like to have been at the current Music Festival at Duncan on the evening that the audience disgraced itself by uncalled-for applause. Except that I'm afraid I'd have further disgraced myself by uncalled-for merriment.

When this community's promising young pianist sat at the piano to play that night he was quite horrified to find himself overwhelmed by an unaccustomed nervousness. His hands became clammy and began to tremble; his meticulous mind refused to operate with anything resembling its well-trained finesse. So he did the only possible thing—hammed his way through the performance and walked the long way across the stage to his place while applause thundered through the auditorium. Whereupon the adjudicator arose and thundered denunciation upon an audience who gave a standing ovation for an improperly-rendered selection. Of the scattered few who were amused, one was the young pianist, who benefits by expert criticism, even the most scathing. Seems to me the kind of sense of humor that allows one to laugh at one's self must be one of the necessary attributes of a fine artist. This lad has it. And while his music is the most important thing in his life, I've yet to see him take himself too seriously—a talent and a characteristic that will, I think, mold him into one of Canada's finest future musicians.

If any readers mistook that picture of Old Satchmo (a couple of columns ago) for old Jo Healy—twasn't so. I never get photographed without my glamor glasses. . .

News item: City beat policemen don't like the idea of marching to and fro from their stations behind a sergeant. Got us discussing what we thought was once one of Victoria's smartest sights—a company of helmeted "bobbies" marching briskly down the street, each one "falling off" with military precision as he reached his respective beat. . .

This works . . . for hiccups . . . plug both ears with index fingers and swallow a tumbler full of water without drawing a breath. Can be done by yourself with much manoeuvring of water glass on edge of table. Hiccups gone, just be careful not to cut your toes or catch pneumonia from wet feet.

Except for the potential threat of forest fires, this sunny weather leaves us very little to complain about. The danger of which we are all much aware, however, was brought very close to home when one of my friends and I were en route to Duncan the other day. By the side of the main highway we spied a thick wall of smoke rising from last fall's carpet of tinder-dry leaves. Like true woodsmen we stopped the car, stamped out the fire and as an added precaution covered the area with gravel. The fire was started from a burning, hanky-sized piece of wool material, obviously dropped from a passing automobile. To believe that it had been deliberately thrown into the wooded area would be too far-fetched, but here was an example of flagrant carelessness that leaves us with the haunting fear that not only our hard-won and very precious road is endangered by some careless fool, but the simple fact of our livelihood—the forest itself. So please, everyone—be careful this fire season and all the ones to come.

Guide Bright Pupils From Start—Expert

LADYSMITH, B.C. (CP)—Only half the really bright students go on to university, Dr. S. R. Laycock said Tuesday.

Scholarships at the university level are too late to retrieve all the potential students that could go on to higher learning, he said in an address to the Lady-smith and Chemainus District Teachers' Association.

Teachers in primary grades could serve as talent scouts to discover the gifted child who could then be guided through channels of learning suited to his capacity.

Dr. Laycock, former dean of education at the University of Saskatchewan, forecast a great upsurge of interest in gifted children because of an "enormous competition for brains" in the world today.

A national conference to study problems of exceptional children may be called by the federal government within two years.

So said Mrs. Ernest Evans of Victoria, president of the Canadian Home and School and Parent-Teacher Federation addressing 500 delegates to the recent Quebec Federation of Home and School Associations in Montreal.

She said the proposed conference would consider not only children with physical and mental handicaps but all types of "exceptional" children, the gifted, the emotionally disturbed and the socially maladjusted.

New Way Relieves Arthritic, Rheumatic Pain Without Pills

Greaseless, odorless cream penetrates deep, speeds flow of fresh, rich blood into sore areas, helps drive away pain-causing pressure.

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—Science has now developed an odorless, greaseless cream that acts in a new way to bring hours and hours of relief from pains of arthritis and rheumatism—without the need of taking pills and other medicines that may upset the system.

Rubbed gently into painful areas, this cream penetrates so deep it actually vanishes into the skin. It speeds the flow of fresh, rich blood into sore muscles, joints. Actually helps drive away pain-causing pressure and congestion.

Used by doctors in England, France and the U.S.A., this remarkable cream is now available without prescription at drug stores everywhere. Ask for InfraRUB. Only $1.39 a large tube. InfraRUB is guaranteed to give comforting relief from arthritis-rheumatic pains or your money back.

1.5-Mill Boost in Taxes Set for Central Saanich

SAANICHTON—Central Saanich Tuesday struck a tax rate of 26 mills, allowing 15 mills for schools, 10 mills for general purposes, and one mill for local improvements.

It represents an increase of one and one-half mills over the rate of 24½ mills last year.

Municipal clerk Don S. Wood, in presenting budget to council, reported that $22,600 had been allocated for works expenditures during the current year.

Central Saanich share of school district 63 costs will be $34,000.

Other items were: Municipal administration, $13,535; fire department, $2,400; police department, $7,570; street lights, $150; health and welfare, $13,850; park board, $450; library, $6,000; inspector's expenses, $1,400; road debentures, $3,335; interest, $491; bank interest, $350; civil defence, $150; grants, $50; garden, $50; drainage, $1,000.

Capital expenditures: Office equipment, $150; fire department, $3,100; works department, $150.

Majority of the council favors purchase of a new fire truck to replace the 20-year-old second-hand vehicle at present being manned by the municipality's volunteer fire department.

Zoning by-law 64 was passed by council, rescinded to permit minor alterations, and re-passed, all within a few minutes.

It was done on the advice of C. R. Leighton, chairman of the Town Planning Commission, who pointed out that introduction of an amendment would involve the holding of another public meeting.

Proposal to erect a 500-capacity chicken house on the former Ronson property on Verdier avenue brought about the change in zoning regulations.

Granting of such a proposal, said Mr. Leighton, would mean the establishment of a chicken farm right in the middle of Brentwood.

Suggestion of Coun. John B. Windsor was adopted, that no farming such as raising chickens or fur-bearing animals considered obnoxious to residents be permitted in a designated area.

Council has ordered a spray truck to fight the growing infestation of caterpillars. Only the trees and bushes at the roadsides can be sprayed, however, and the authorities are appealing to property owners to co-operate.

The question of building a new culvert across Stelly's crossroad to carry off water from Hagan's creek got an affirmative nod from council.

There was talk of employing an engineer to make a survey, but after considerable discussion council inclined to the work being done by the works department.

Because of the "aesthetic and cultural" value so evident, Butchart's Gardens will be allowed to erect signs of artistic design at intersectional points on Central Saanich highways.

Central Saanich council, on the motion of Coun. Peter Warren, voted that a by-law be prepared to permit the sale of raw milk in the municipality.

'MAKESHIFT FARMER'

Ex-Governor Fights Big Drain on Well

Claiming to be only "a makeshift farmer," W. C. Woodward, former B.C. lieutenant-governor, department store operator, and owner of Woodwynn Farm on West Saanich road, appeared before Central Saanich municipal council Tuesday.

He was opposing proposed use of federal department of transport to supply Patricia Bay camp with water.

Mr. Woodward said the use of the well by the government would so lower the water table that it would "practically finish the valley" (Mount Newton).

TOO EXPENSIVE

He said his farm had been using the water from Stewart's well for nine years, but it had not been available now for months.

"The government says it is too expensive," he said.

The department of transport has been using Elk lake water supplied to Patricia Bay by a 12-inch main and notified the Brentwood Water District, also linked up to the system, that it would not require water from Elk after March 31.

The Brentwood board was notified it would be given plenty of notice regarding developments and that is how the situation stands.

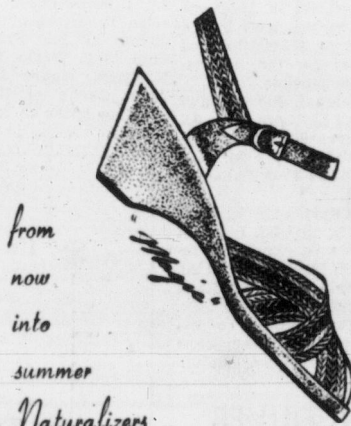

The government, it is understood is still pumping water from Elk lake.

On motion of Councillor Windsor, council instructed the municipal clerk to communicate with government authorities in Ottawa and Victoria, also to the parliamentary and legislative members, stating that heavy use of the well by the department of transport would "desolate the valley."

LOCAL NEWS BRIEFS

Queen Charlotte Islands will be the object of an army mapping survey team this summer as part of a joint military-government department task of charting 3,845,744 square miles of Canada from North West Territories to the International Boundary.

A sea trip through the Charlottes will be a change from the rest of the army teams working inland, many in the near-frozen north. It will be led by Sgt. Maj. (WO1) Frank Connors, Ottawa, who will take his surveyors into bays, inlets and sounds of the northern B.C. coast.

Victoria men won two bronze medals for high runners-up scores in stretcher-bearing competition against British troops in Germany for the Connaught Challenge Shield.

They are Sgt. John Richardson and Pte. Mike Ritchie, members of Second Battalion Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, which came second in the competition held under simulated battle conditions.

A total of nine PPCLI received medals for being runners-up. Their unit won the contest a year ago.

Julian Edward Pilotte, 510 Dunedin, was fined $50 or 30 days in jail when he pleaded guilty in city police court Tuesday to a charge of supplying liquor to a minor.

The minor, Edward Keith Arkin, 20, 1641 Cedar, was fined $10 on a charge of being a minor in possession of liquor and an additional $10 on a charge of wilfully damaging a soap dispenser in the Dominion Hotel on May 5.

Two men were fined when they pleaded guilty in city police court Tuesday to careless driving charges.

Lee Jung, 829 North Park, was fined $35 and $5 costs or five days in jail on a charge arising from a minor two-car accident April 27 at Moss and Carnes.

Calvin Clayton Cooper, 905 North Park, was fined $35 or five days in jail and restricted to driving for business purposes only.

Cooper told police he had been driving west on Kings and slowing for a stop sign at Blanshard on April 21 when his foot slipped off the brake, court heard.

The truck went through a stop sign and collided with a car, causing $170 damages.

In city police court Tuesday Julian Gordon Leland, 3105 Yew, was fined $15 or three days in jail on a charge of exceeding a 15 mph playground speed limit on Cook street April 22.

Board of Industrial Relations will hold a public hearing June 12 to receive representations on the revision of male and female minimum wage orders applying to the mercantile industry.

The hearing will be held in the Department of Labor Board room, 411 Dunsuir street in Vancouver. The minimum wage order involved is order number 24, approved in 1949.

Written submissions are being accepted by the board.

In Esquimalt police court Monday, William Vowles, Sooke, was fined a total of $30 on charges of driving without a licence and disobeying a traffic signal.

Joe Chaplin was elected president of Victoria Lions Club at its annual meeting, replacing Donald Rome. Nels Foster is first vice-president, Ed St. Jorre second vice-president.

James Wilson and Arthur Cann were elected to posts of treasurer and secretary, respectively, by acclamation.

Lion tamer is Jack Johnstone and directors are Elliott Brown, Denis Glew, George Hinch, Lionel O'Neill and E. Sidaway.

Two Victorians are among 13 new members of the Association of Professional Engineers who have been registered and are entitled to practice as professional engineers in British Columbia. They are J. P. Hicks, field investigating engineers, B.C. Power Commission, and F. E. Neate, assistant public health engineer, provincial department of public health.

Theft of $36 cash from an office of the Accounting Corp. of America, 923 Fort, was reported to city police Tuesday.

Police said the money was taken from a desk drawer. They could find no signs of forced entry.

JAMAICA? NO. BANFF? NO

Victoria Preferred By Scot Hotelman

A Scotsman travelling from a winter job in Jamaica to a summer job at Banff, Alberta, spent two days in Victoria en route and decided to make his future home here.

"This island seems to have just about everything any man could want," said William Laurie, a tall, bronzed highlander, interviewed at the Old England Inn.

Laurie, an experienced hotel-bars manager at the Round Hill Hotel, Montego Bay, Jamaica—a luxury hotel which operates from November to April each year.

While still in Jamaica he applied in the post of food controller at the Banff Springs Hotel during the summer season.

"I got the job and decided to fly for the hotel industry here."

DRIVER MUST AWAIT TURN FOR EXAMINATION

M. J. Bodden, Belmont Road, complained of an injustice after he was fined $40 in Esquimalt police court Monday on charges of driving over 30 miles an hour and not having a B.C. drivers' licence.

He told the court he had applied for a drivers' examination after his arrival here from Ontario, but was informed by the Motor Vehicles Branch he could not be tested until May 28.

Bodden said he accepted the speeding fine without protest, but could not understand why his Ontario licence would not serve until the Motor Vehicles Branch could provide him with a B.C. licence. Magistrate A. I. Thomas imposed the minimum fine of $25 for the second charge.

Chamber Asks Ideas For Seagull Markers

If you have any ideas as to what scenic and historic sites in Victoria should be marked with a seagull sign send them to the Chamber of Commerce.

So far the chamber has ordered 15 metal signs for erection locally, but there will be many more.

"There must be at least 50 sites of special interest to tourists," a chamber spokesman said today, "and we will be glad to receive suggestions as to which sites should be marked."

First of the new directional signs, mounted on eight-foot metal posts, will go up outside Victoria and Island Publicity

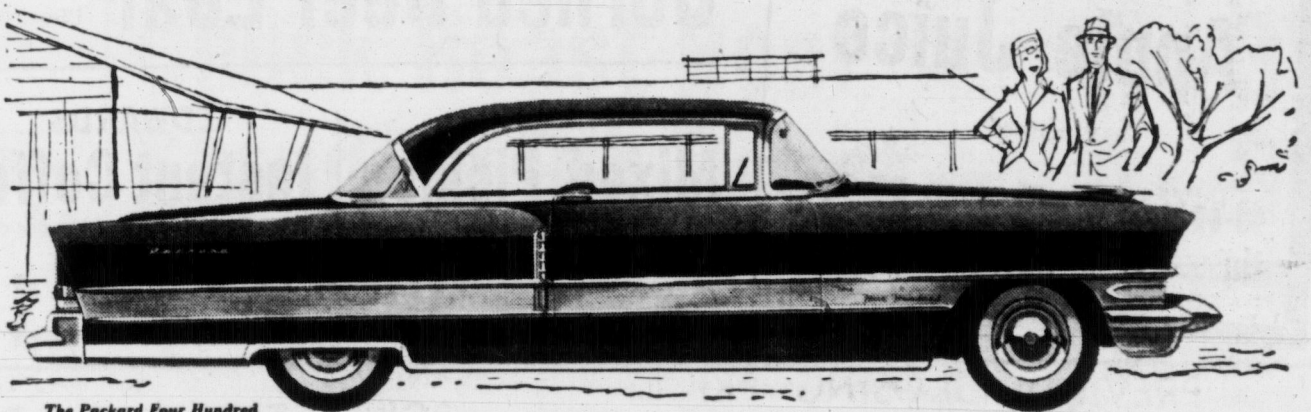

Bureau this week. Other sites to be marked include:

Parliament Buildings, Thunderbird Park, Helmcken House, Government House, the Art Gallery, Craigdarroch Castle, Gonzales Observatory, Craigflower School, Mount Douglas, Mount Tolmie and Beacon Hill Park.

The chamber will sell commercial maps to hotels and motels in the area and points of interest on these maps will be marked with tiny seagulls.

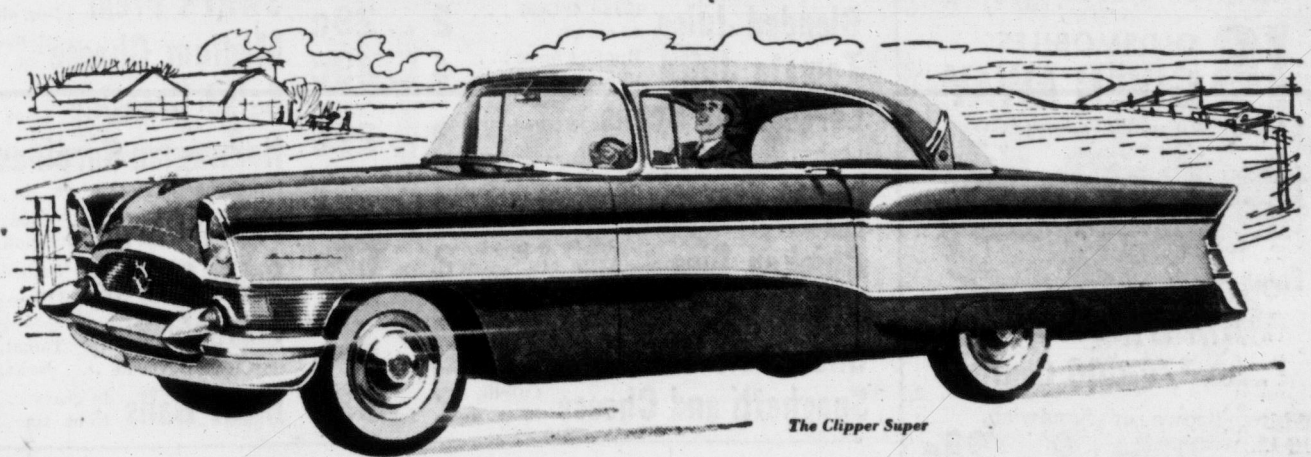

In collaboration with the city works department, the chamber plans to have a yellow line painted down the centre of streets approaching points of interest.

WHAT'S THE SCORE? BY Denny Boyd

The possibility of Victoria rolling out the grass carpet for the North American Davis Cup tie is full of more contingencies than an inside straight.

But it is definitely within the realm of solid possibility that we may be seeing the likes of Bob Bedard, Henri Rochon, Ham Richardson, Herb Flam, Vic Seixas and Art Larsen coveting over the time-honored courts at Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club.

Says Jim McArthur, VLT & B's head flag-waver and tub-thumper, "The U.S. Lawn Tennis Association has a list of possible sites, Victoria among them. They have to look at each of them in turn and select the one that seems to have the most merit to hold a Davis Cup tie. We feel that we stand a fair chance of being that city."

The USLTA is said to be anxious to play the cup-tie in the West this year but there is no obligation that it has to be in Canada.

However, there has been little interest shown in California and Seattle does not have suitable courts.

Vancouver would like to be the city but, with the Dominion Championships scheduled for early August, that city's courts would be hard-pressed to handle all that high-class traffic within a matter of two or three weeks.

Grass Courts Could Be Clincher

The VLT & B is relatively small, with seating capacity for only 500 but the courts are grass and that could be one of the strongest factors in Victoria's favor.

The U.S. team, headed by non-playing captain, socialite Billy Talbert, has to agree on the site and the position of that U.S. team this year could point the finger to Victoria.

If the Yanks go right through to the challenge round, they would have to venture into the home den of the lionish Australians, who are defending the cup this year and in the down-under country, the challenge matches would be played on grass courts.

The prospect of capering under cup competition on grass courts early in the Davis Cup eliminations might be appealing enough to the U.S. team that they would not only accept, but plump for Victoria for the North American tie.

And what's more, the seating bugaboo at VLT & B isn't the acre it was earlier in the week. Club officials have a line of a set of portable bleachers that could, if arrangements can be completed, bring the capacity up to 2,000.

Bitten by His Own Enthusiasm

A coach in any sport can wish for nothing better than a bunch of guys who are so anxious to play every night that nothing will stop them.

But sometimes this can backfire, as in the case of Peewee Bradshaw.

Now Bradshaw loves his lacrosse like a schoolboy loves his pie, to paraphrase W. C. Handy.

So the painful ankle injury he suffered Wednesday night was not enough to keep him from travelling to New Westminster the following night.

Coach White Severson, the trainer and club doctor quizzed Bradshaw repeatedly but he insisted the ankle didn't hurt and was strong enough to play on. He explained later, "Hell, I wanted to play."

But, in that New Westminster game, Peewee aggravated the injury that started as a bad sprain and now is a separation of the tibia and the fibula. Those words mean that the Rocks will be without Peewee for a month.

You can't really blame Peewee. And you can't tell him to stop being so anxious to play. But it will be a lesson well-learned for the Shamrock Club.

TOSES TWO-HITTER

Dave Comes Close To Baseball Fame

Only an infield single and a looping Texas Leaguer single got between Dave Emery and a little bit of baseball fame Tuesday night.

Emery, United Commercial Travellers' pitcher, gave up weak singles to Bud Taylor and Ron Frumrie in the sixth inning after hurling no-hit ball for five innings. However, Emery wiped out the side in the sixth and preserved his shutout for a 3-0 victory over Optimists in the Babe Ruth baseball league game.

Optimist pitcher Les Bruce gave up two runs in the first inning and another in the third but tossed scoreless ball the rest of the route, finishing with a four-hitter.

Tonight at Beacon Hill Park, Menzies Fuel takes on McCall Davey Drug at 6:30.

Optimists 3-0, 201 000 0-2 4 1, Dave Emery and George West, Les Bruce and Ron Frumrie.

TIME OUT!

"The guy's always grandstanding... Like now, he's showing off by pitching a no-hitter against us!"

Rick Breaks Second Mark

Rugged Rick Kelsall set his second record in as many days Tuesday afternoon as the Victoria High School track and field finals went into their second day.

Kelsall, who broke the junior boys' record Monday, set a new mark in the junior boys' shot put Tuesday with a heave of 37' 11" to better the old standing by a foot and a half.

In house standings, House 2 remained out in front of the other three teams by a good margin.

Senior boys' shot put—Ian McDougall, 41' 4"; Mel Bond, Brian Sulzberg.
Senior boys' high jump—Gary Gey, 5' 7"; Ivan Goodmann, Art Chisholm.
Senior girls' broad jump—Sheila Clark, 15' 2"; Pam Wright, Jean Morrison.
Junior boys' shot put—Rick Kelsall, 37' 11"; Al Hayton, Andy Melja.

Arroyo Traded

ST. LOUIS (AP) — St. Louis Cardinals today traded left-hander Luis Arroyo to the Pittsburgh Pirates for Max Surkont, 33-year-old right-handed relief pitcher.

Arroyo, a 28-year-old Puerto Rican, was recalled from Omaha of the American Association for today's trade, announced as a straight player deal. Surkont had a 7-14 record and a 5.58 earned run average last season.

Vanderbilt to Sell, But Dancer Stays

NEW YORK (AP) — Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt announced Tuesday he is disposing of most of his vast racing stable but will keep the great Native Dancer in stud "for future seasons."

The sportsman said he would offer at auction May 21 at Belmont Park his entire crop of two, three and four-year-old race horses, 37 in all, retaining only five active horses six years or older.

He also will continue to operate Sagamore Farm in Maryland, where his famed Native Dancer, three-year-old champion of 1953 and one of the top money winners of all time, is quartered.

The sharp cutback in his racing interests, Vanderbilt said, is made necessary by his duties as president of the World Veterans Fund and other charitable interests.

"Although this sale will greatly reduce our racing activities this year, we are looking forward to future seasons and especially to the time when Native Dancer foals will start racing," he said.

Native Dancer was retired Oct. 5, 1954, after winning 21 of 22 races during his career. The only setback for the big grey champion came in the Kentucky Derby when he was beaten by Dark Star.

'B' Boxla Opens Tuesday

Foul Bay and Jokers, the two long-term homesteaders in the Senior B Lacrosse League, will open the "B" season next Tuesday.

The clubs lift the lid on the season when they meet at Stevenson park at 6:30. Second game of the season, the following Thursday, matches Jokers and Junior Shamrocks.

Man's Only Kidney Removed, Widow Files $250,000 Suit

BOSTON (UP)—A young widow has sued two doctors for $250,000, claiming her husband died because they removed his right kidney without determining first that he had no left kidney.

Mrs. Nancy Keefe of Billerica filed her suit last February. It was disclosed Tuesday. She charged the doctors with negligence in the death of her husband, James, last July 3.

Keefe, 27, a veteran of army and navy service, was operated on for what was diagnosed as an inflamed appendix, May 7, 1955, according to the widow's lawyer, James A. Brink. Brink said the doctor found the appendix was all right.

But, he said, the surgeon during the operation noticed a tumor on Keefe's right kidney and removed the whole organ. Not until three days later when Keefe was X-rayed, Brink said, was it discovered that he had no left kidney.

Before then Keefe was unaware himself that he had been born without the organ and so was his family, Brink said.

Keefe was brought to a Boston hospital and kept alive with an artificial kidney until June 22, when surgeons attempted a kidney transplant. The transplant failed, and Keefe died 11 days later.

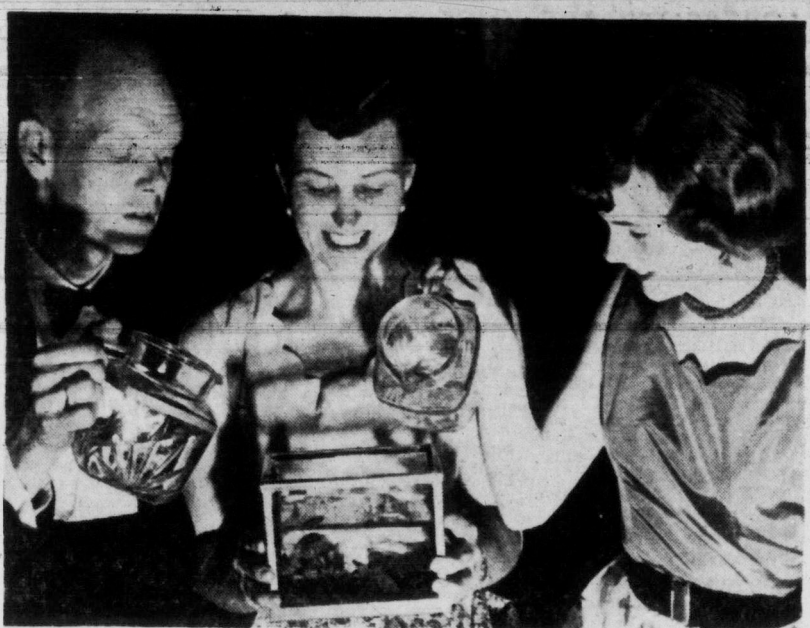

Brink said a pathologist reported that the tumor in the removed kidney was a harmless type.

The suit accused the doctors of malpractice. It is awaiting trial.

The couple had been married only four months before his death.

Ford Quits Top Post In Foundation Set-Up

DETROIT (AP)—Henry Ford II resigned Tuesday as board chairman of the Ford Foundation, the huge philanthropic organization set up by his father and his grandfather. Young Henry said he will remain on the board of directors. He said he felt the foundation needed a full-time chairman.

AND IT ISN'T 'ALL DONE WITH MIRRORS'

Ernie Crookford, past president of the Victoria Magic Circle, and his lovely assistants, Audrey and Lorraine, pour water into an empty goldfish tank.

They won't tell you how but suddenly little goldfish appear. This is one of the things to be seen at the Magic Circle show planned for June 1.

Victoria Magic Circle Group Planning Public Show on June 1

You needn't be a mother fish to produce live little fish. Not if you belong to Victoria's "Magic Circle," that is.

In fact, producing live fish out of nowhere is only part of the hokum that's perpetrated by the Magic Circle at the Magicians' Little Theatre created in the rumpus room of Ernie Crookford's home, 4120 Cedar Hill road.

The public will be able to see much of this hokum at a show to be sponsored by the Victoria Cosmopolitan Club in the MLT on June 1.

Of course, it isn't all hokum and fun to Magic Circle members themselves. They are deadly serious about their organization, magic being their big hobby and in some instances their profession.

Membership is made up of a teacher who specializes in mind reading, a travelling salesman, who instead of telling stories about farmers' daughters, performs pocket tricks with sponges, coins, cards, etc., and uses them to beguile his customers. Others include a wholesale grocery manager who has reached professional status in magic, a high school student who swallows razor blades and a former circus performer.

The circle meets monthly to hold a business session on constitutional lines following up with instruction in and demonstrations of magic.

The Little Theatre has a small stage, appropriately lighted with backdrop, front curtain, magicians' tables and all the other equipment needed to give a show. Seats are raised for the audience.

Magic Circle officers are Carl Hemm on, president; Ross Simms, vice-president; Don Robinson, secretary-treasurer; Ernie Crookford, past president and Frank Merrifield, life member.

Further details of the show to be presented June 1 will be announced later.

Visit of Russians To Sweden Protested

STOCKHOLM (Reuters)—A delegation of 16 Soviet members of Parliament arrived here Monday amid protests against their visit by 25,000 refugees from the Baltic states living in Sweden, and by some newspapers. The visit returns one by Swedish members of Parliament to Russia last year.

Central Production By CBC Criticized

WINNIPEG (CP)—A French language amateur theatrical group said today it is unfair that the majority of CBC television programs are produced in Montreal and Toronto.

The Cercle Moliere of nearby St. Boniface said in a brief to the royal commission on broadcasting that in a country as large as Canada excessive centralization is unjustified.

"The artists of other areas are forced to leave their own home cities and move to these two production centres if they want to push themselves forward."

The result of all this is that Winnipeg, Vancouver and the other large centres are becoming more and more empty of their most interesting artists, and their television stations, which should produce programs, are becoming nothing more than relay stations.

The Cercle Moliere, established in 1925 and one of the oldest amateur repertory groups in Canada, said the CBC has all the facilities needed in Winnipeg to produce programs there using French—and English—language and bilingual artists.

It called for an increase from two to five hours a week in the amount of French broadcasting on CBWT, the CBC's TV outlet in Winnipeg. The new French schedule should include a half-hour for local French productions.

The Cercle Moliere called for more French-language children's programs in Winnipeg.

Its brief said that if a second television station is opened in Winnipeg it should be controlled by the CBC, even if it is a private station. A licence for a private station should be issued only if the licensee recognizes "his responsibilities towards the French minority in the area."

PLEASURE AFLOAT

Cruise to Foreign Land Easy But Rules Must Be Observed

One of the nicer aspects of yachting in this vicinity is the opportunity of visiting a foreign country and cruising through the beautiful waterways to the charming ports of Puget Sound.

Such a holiday can be grand, and the men in the blue-grey uniform of the U.S. Immigration Service will give visitors all help possible and do everything within their power to make their trip pleasant.

This, of course, is assuming that the traveler shows his host country the courtesy of observing its rules and regulations. If they are flouted or ignored, great trouble can arise ever so quickly.

POINTS TO CHECK

Immigration officers advise scrupulous observance of the following points to make crossing the boundary into the United States by private boat easy, painless, and pleasant:

1. Report to the nearest U.S. Customs and Immigration office immediately on crossing the border.
2. Arrange itinerary to reach the office between 8.30 a.m. and 5 p.m. on regular working days, and not Saturdays, Sundays, or United States holidays.
3. Have adequate proof of citizenship available.

(Immigration officers have no interest in travelers' financial arrangements, but they advise purchase of American funds in Canada before the trip is made, merely as a convenience.)

Meeting these conditions is easy. Failure to observe them can be awkward.

For instance, failure to report to customs makes the traveler subject to a fine and confiscation of his boat, whether the boat belongs to him or is on charter. Further, he is liable for the landing of each passenger or crew member before proper clearance.

Handy points of entry are Port Angeles, Friday Harbor, Anacortes, Bellingham and Blaine. Immigration officers will permit one to cruise past any of these if his ultimate destination is another, as long as there are no intermediate stops.

For example, a yachtsman bound for Bellingham may sail right past Friday Harbor and enter at Bellingham. But if he decides he would like to stop at

University School Cadets to Start Sunset Ceremonies

Twenty sunset and retreat ceremonies have been set for the summer on the lawn of the Legislative Buildings by a committee of armed service and civilian personnel.

First flag-lowering will be done by University School Cadet Corps May 21 and 25, the next by Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Corps Cougar, Shawnigan Lake, June 1.

From there until Aug. 30, end of the summer schedule, ceremonies will be carried out by regular and militia forces of the three services.

Units taking part will be 5 Harbor Defence Battery, Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's), 4 Light Anti-Aircraft Battery, Second Battalion Queen's Own Rifles of Canada, 2455 Aircraft Control and Warning Squadron RCAF (Aux.) Royal Canadian Navy.

The schedule as now set down is subject to change if other arrangements have already been made by forces planning to participate in the tradition.

Alert Priest Nabs Poor-Box Thief

DENVER (AP)—An alert priest nabbed a poor-box thief as the suspect fled from a Denver church Monday. Rev. Joseph M. O'Malley, a former amateur boxer, captured George Wilbur Stinson, 30, after a six-block chase. The man surrendered without a fight. Detectives said the man admitted the robbery. He was carrying $107.50 when arrested.

Thief Operates Outside Cop Station

LONDON (Reuters)—Hearing screams, several policemen dashed out of a police station here today and arrested a man on their doorstep trying to steal a handbag from a woman.

Esquimalt to Ponder Chest Appeal Anew

Greater Victoria Community Chest officials proposing a $2,300 grant to Esquimalt for a grant will be given a second look by council when yearly estimates are considered in the near future.

The chest's first request for a grant was turned down several meetings ago because of council's policy prohibiting aid to a cause for which a public canvass is conducted.

Community Chest chairman R. B. Wilson made a personal appeal to council Monday night, pointing out that Esquimalt along with Saanich, are the only two municipalities in the total area which do not make an annual contribution.

Based on the 1951 census, an estimate was worked out by going to be concerned. If we decide to make the grant as suggested, it would mean adding $2,000 to our estimates." Council G. K. Sammon countered: "The faster we make a grant, the sooner we do away with all other appeals for grants." Reeve A. C. Wurtele added: "It has been council policy where a drive is made in the municipality, council does not make a grant of public money. That would be contributing to the Community Chest, the owner we do away with all other appeals for grants." Council then rejected abruptly and without discussion an appeal for money from Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau.

further transfusions will not likely be necessary.

In returning the child to Mr. and Mrs. John Wilson of Vancouver, the court ordered that Janice remain under the "supervision" of the Children's Aid Society for "an indefinite period."

The parents refused to permit the blood transfusion in line with their religious belief that the Bible forbids the taking into the body of blood by any means.

DRUMMER BOY GOING STRONG

He married his second wife, who is now dead, at the age of 98.

7 Years in Jail for Express Truck Robbery

EDMONTON (CP)—George Soga, 25, was sentenced to seven years in penitentiary Tuesday in connection with a theft of $44,300 from a Canadian National Express truck here April 9.

Soga and Edward Gagne, 21, pleaded guilty to the theft earlier. Gagne was remanded to May 16.

Permission was refused. Police arrested Soga near Vancouver April 20, recovering $22,000 of the missing money. Another $22,000 was recovered in a shack in Vancouver's west end.

Aid for B.C. Farmers Urged by CCF Leader

VANCOUVER (CP)—Robert Strachan, newly-elected provincial CCF leader, has asked the provincial government to provide hay from the Peace River district to Fraser Valley farmers "at a price they can afford."

Mr. Strachan said Tuesday night in a Burrard CCF meeting that "unless farming gets back on an even keel in B.C., industry can't keep going."

"There's a fear hanging over B.C. The leader of that fear is Premier Bennett... I have heard (Social Credit) ministers say that an economic crisis is going to come."

Mr. Strachan said that "as long as we have resources, workers and intelligent leadership, we have no fear of an economic crisis."

He said it is "utterly ridiculous" that farmers in the Fraser Valley had to pay $110 a ton for hay during the winter when the usual price is about $35.

"In the Peace River sat great stacks of hay," he said. The government should have used public works equipment to take the hay to the Fraser Valley at "very little cost."

Make MOTHER a Queen on Her day with memorable gifts from the BAY!

NEXT SUNDAY, MAY 13th IS MOTHER'S DAY

One day a year will hardly repay Mother for the 365 days she puts in looking after our every want — but we can make an extra effort to really show her how much she is loved. A card, best wishes and a gift from the store she shops in herself (The Bay) will be most appreciated. At the Bay everything is planned to make your shopping easy — new fixtures and gift wrapping facilities make gift buying a pleasure. Phone shopping helps stay-at-homes to buy quickly and easily and have their purchases delivered in time for Mother's Day or the Bay's Deposit Plan will hold any purchase until Saturday. And Mom, too, is assured of complete satisfaction with your gift by the Hudson's Bay Company's guarantee.

BETWEEN TIMES By MONTE ROBERTS

People are more fun than anybody.

Something new has been added . . . it is now possible to discern Andy Stephen's moustache at 20 paces . . . on a clear day. Something old has been subtracted . . . former mayor Claude Harrison turned up at the Royal Roads graduation ceremonies minus his cloak . . . didn't seem right, somehow.

If you'd like a short, sharp funny, ask John Priestley to tell you about the husband who was always in the dog-house but . . .

Premier Bennett told the Secreeds in Saskatchewan not to worry about the men . . . but to concentrate on the women . . . who hold the balance of power . . . things in Saskatchewan must be much the same as they are at our house . . .

Albert Smith of Pacific Salvage Co. reports one of his frogmen-type divers went down to a depth of 150 feet looking for a PGE boxcar . . . a commendable feat, Albert, but I've known crapsshooters who have gone down deeper than THAT with box-cars.

(If I need to explain to Aunt Mathilda, that's . . .

Stan Kendall is very cross because I didn't say which service club is going to fine him for having his name in this space . . . (you remember, I promised never to mention Stan Kendall's name here again, because it costs a dime a time) . . . well, anyway, Stan says I should have said Kendall belongs to the Camosun Gyros . . . and, as Stan puts it, there will be a great commotion come next Tuesday. . . This is a pun, son?

This will be the last time Stan Kendall's name gets into Between Times, as it costs him too much money . . . all of it extracted by the Camosun Gyro's sheriff, Ron Jeune . . . Ron Jeune, they tell me, is quite an expert at extracting, even though he is an optometrist by trade, not a dentist . . . well, get in there and extract, Ron . . . and by the time the boys get through with you, Jeune may be bust-in' out all over . . .

Stop spinning in your grave, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow . . . Mrs. Warren knew you wrote "When The Day Is Done" and that in it you included the like-the-Arabs-silently-tents business . . .

Sorry about my last bit of misinformation in re Marlene . . . she got the licence okay, but it was for her dog, an Irish-Mexican named Chicta Juanita y Alvarez y O'Toole . . .

"Phoned a man last night, and said this was Monte, and he said "Which Monty? Monty Watson, Monty Locke, Monty Montgomery or Monty Drake?"

Said I would have the last-mentioned Monty drop up and sue him sometime.

People certainly ARE more fun than anybody.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES

Victoria City Comptroller Dennis A. Young will address a meeting of Victoria Civic Voters' Association at City Hall, May 16, in council chambers. Meeting starts at 8 p.m.

His topic will be "Determination of the Mill Rate and Capital Financing." There is no admission charge and the meeting is open to the public.

Greater Victoria Intermunicipal Committee meets Friday at 2 p.m. at City Hall. Victoria-Esquamalt Union Board of Health will meet at 3 p.m. Monday, and Victoria-Saanich Beaches and Parks Committee will hold a meeting and annual tour of district recreational facilities Wednesday, starting at 9 a.m.

Monthly meeting of the James Bay Community Association will be held Thursday at 8 p.m. in the association hall, corner of Dallas Road and Pilot Street.

Greater Victoria Celebrations Association will cancel invitations sent to two United States drill teams to take part in Victoria Day parade here unless more Victorians offer to billet the visiting youngsters.

GVCA official Capt. Norman Foster said today response to an earlier request for lodging has been "poor."

The drill teams are expected to come here from Western Washington College and Port Townsend.

HMCS Cordova will carry out firing practice in Juan de Fuca Strait Thursday, from 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Theft of $250 worth of television tubes and electrical equipment from Irene's Furniture, 707 View, was reported to city police Tuesday.

WINNER of the Royal Canadian Institute $500 scholarship in natural sciences for 1956-57 is Victoria Louise Bergbusch, 20, 1372 Craigdarroch. She has just completed her third year in honors biology at University of Saskatchewan, Saskatoon. In 1955 she won the second year arts and sciences scholarship at the university.

Local 1-118 International Woodworkers of America holds its general meeting Sunday at 2 p.m. in the CCL labor hall, 715 Johnson. Shop stewards meet prior to the membership at noon.

In city police court today John Douglas Munro, 636 Newport, was fined $5 on a charge of driving against traffic on a one-way street April 26.

Damage estimated at about $250 was caused to the residence of Frank Hall, 355 Arnot, Tuesday afternoon, when a spark from a rubbish fire started a roof fire at the home.

Saanich firemen rushed to the scene at 3:30 p.m. and quickly extinguished the blaze.

John Taylor of 56 Regina street, Saanich, wants to start an open-air checkers club for children and old people at the playground at Simms and Regina.

He would like to hear from checker players who would be willing to assist in forming the club.

"I used to own the land at Simms and Regina," Mr. Taylor told the Times, "but I have given it to Saanich as playground. It is small but I think it would be ideal for checkers."

Lawrence J. Wallace, director, night schools and community programs branch, Department of Education, will lecture in a summer course at University of British Columbia on administration of adult education programs.

The course, July 3 to 20, is being offered for the first time in western Canada by UBC.

It is planned for school teachers, principals and superintendents.

Victoria area Ground Observer Corps regional supervisor E. F. Stephenson said today the corps has been declared responsible for recent rescue of an aircraft crew missing in the B.C. interior.

He pointed out that similar look-out posts are active at Esquimalt, Malahat, Bamerton, Shawnigan Lake, Prospect Lake, Saanichton, Sooke Lake and Oak Bay, on a 24-hour basis.

Victoria Freeman Bert Thomas plans another attempt to swim the 20-odd miles from Seattle to Tacoma Friday.

He plans to enter the water at 10 a.m. Victoria time and anticipates the swim will take nine hours.

Thomas is the only man to swim the Strait of Juan de Fuca.

CHICO SPENT NIGHT OUT

Unrepentant Chico merely sneers as she receives mild scolding from owner Roy Cooper, who berated her for monkeying around all night in Central Park. Chico escaped from Jaycee Fair midway about 11 p.m., spent the night in the trees, was chased home at 9 a.m. (Times photo.)

9,800 Attend Second Day Of Jaycee Fair

Second day of the Victoria Industrial and Agricultural Exhibition, sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce, drew a total attendance of 9,800 to the arena and curling rink.

"This is an encouraging increase on the 8,000 who saw the exhibition Monday and we are hoping today's attendance will reach 15,000," Frank Mannix, publicity chairman said.

Objective for the week is a total attendance of 90,000.

The exhibition has received hundreds of phone calls asking the price of admission. It is 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children of 12 years and over. Children under 12 accompanied by an adult are admitted free.

Beauty Queen candidates competing for the "Miss Victoria" title received another ovation when they paraded in the arena and curling rink Tuesday. They paraded each night at 8:30 p.m. in the arena and 9 p.m. in the curling rink.

"The exhibition is well on the way to being the most successful we have ever had," Frank Mannix said. "The arena and curling rink and the midway were packed out on the first two nights."

Royal Oak Man Wins All Prizes For Shorthorns

Bill Turner of Royal Oak won all prizes for Shorthorns in the cattle show at Victoria Industrial and Agricultural Exhibition Tuesday night.

Four Shorthorn prizes were awarded to Mr. Turner for junior yearling, senior yearling, cow or calf and bull under 18 months.

First prize in the 4H club contest for calves went to Vincent Callender, second to Clara Turner, third to Bette Ellen Speller, fourth to Margaret Taylor, fifth to Grace Bishop, sixth to Betty Callender, seventh to Leo Hermen and eighth to David Usher.

Prominent in IODE, Mary Annie Warder Funeral on Friday

A resident here most of her life, Mary Annie Warder died at her home at 542 Fraser today at age of 73.

Mrs. Warder was born in Devon, England, in August of 1882 and had resided in Victoria and Esquimalt since 1884.

She was a life member of the Esquimalt Chapter IODE, of which she was a member for 39 years. She was also treasurer of the Esquimalt Friendly Help for 23 years.

Funeral services will be held Friday, cortege leaving Hayward's chapel at 1:10 p.m., proceeding to St. Paul's Anglican Church, where Rev. J. A. Roberts will officiate at 1:30 p.m.

She is survived by her husband, Major Albert Alfred Warder; two sons, A. Thomas of 1237 Esquimalt Road and W. Donald of 1408 Craddock; also three grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Warder celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary recently.

RCN TO COMMEMORATE BATTLE OF ATLANTIC

Two outdoor services of commemoration for the Battle of the Atlantic will be held by the RCN Pacific Command Sunday, May 20.

The general public will be welcomed at both. The Protestant service will be held on the upper playing field at HMCS Naden, commencing at 9:30 a.m. Bleachers built for the visit here of the Duke of Edinburgh will accommodate 3,200.

Protestant Command Chaplain G. L. Gillard is in charge, and the Naden band and Venture choir will be in attendance.

The Roman Catholic service, also at 9:30, will be at St. Ann's Academy, under the direction of Roman Catholic Command Chaplain J. E. Whelly.

HMCS Stettler Open To Public May 20

RCN ships will visit Victoria's Inner Harbor and the Island ports of Nanaimo and Port Alberni in 20, and will be open for public inspection in the afternoon.

The second Canadian mine-sweeping squadron, comprising HMCS ships Comox, James Bay and Fortune will be at Port Alberni May 20 to 22, following exercises which start from Esquimalt on May 14.

From Port Alberni, the sweepers will go to Aberdeen, Wash., for an informal visit from May 25 to 28, returning to base May 31.

The frigate HMCS Jonquiere is scheduled to visit Nanaimo May 20 and 21.

NAVAL SHIP MOVEMENTS

Ontario and Sioux leave Balboa today en route San Francisco, arrive Esquimalt May 25. Crescent, Cayuga, Jonquiere, New Glasgow and Ste. Therese en route Esquimalt, due 10 a.m. Thursday.

Picture, Essay Contest For Children Set by SPCA

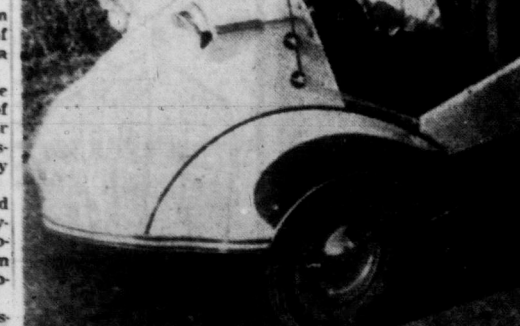

Victoria branch of the B.C. Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals is sponsoring a picture-essay-snapshot contest for children aged 7 to 13 years.

In group one will be painting or crayon drawing contest. An outlined picture can be obtained from pet shops, veterinarians or at the SPCA, Wilson Street.

Group two is the snapshot section. Contestants must submit pictures taken themselves of an animal or animals and send them to the SPCA. They can't be returned unless accompanied by a stamped, addressed envelope.

Group three is an essay contest. Essays, dealing with animals, must not be more than 300 words.

All entries must be received by May 31. Prizes will be radios, cameras, books and other items.

THREE-WHEELER MAKES DEBUT HERE

Scouting around city streets today to amazement of Victorians was Messerschmitt tri-car, shown here, only one of its kind so far in Canada. Vehicle weighs 500 pounds, seats two adults and a child, has top speed of 63 m.p.h. and goes 100 miles per gallon. Idea is to establish agency here. Man waving hello is Peter Homon, representing Edmonton firm bringing car to Canada.

Weather Forcing Logging Changes

Work Hours Advanced

Forest fire threat and low humidities have forced a number of lower Vancouver Island loggers to start work at 5 a.m. and avoid operating in hottest part of the day.

Sooke Lake Logging Co. at Leechtown has started the early shift, one Malahat operator has followed suit, and several in the Cowichan Lake area are starting work at 5 a.m.

"May is awfully early in the year to start that shift," said Edwin Haw, financial secretary of International Woodworkers of America Local 1-118 here. "What will it be like later on? The forest is so hot at Leechtown at midday that you could fry eggs on the rocks up there."

The company's Sooke Lake operation is at the 2,000-foot level.

Forest Service officials have reported recent humidity readings as low as 26 in the Duncan area, although at present they are dropping to a minimum of 30 to 35 each day.

Most loggers stop their operations when the relative humidity drops to 32.

Illegal Plumbing Work Blamed For Health Danger

A health hazard exists in a Gordon Head district due to illegal plumbing installations, a Saanich sanitary department investigation has disclosed.

H. D. Watt, sanitary inspector, in a special report to council, said homes in the San Ardo subdivision are running their waste water into an open ditch.

In addition, he said, there is evidence that septic tank effluent is also running into the ditch.

The investigation was ordered by Reeve Arthur Ash following complaints from residents.

"Something will have to be done about this," said the reeve. Mr. Watt suggested that former councillor H. K. (Pat) Bate is to blame for the present drainage trouble.

DR. STEELE 'UNCHANGED'

Dr. Anne Steele, flown to Victoria from B.C.'s interior Tuesday after an operation on her head following injuries in a riding accident, is still fighting for her life in St. Joseph's Hospital.

Hospital authorities today said "no change, only a slight improvement" in her condition, which is still critical.

She suffered a fractured skull.

HATS OFF TO WEATHER

The sun continues to smile on Victoria residents, including Pat Gannon, and Pat, for one, is happy to smile right back. She's trying on latest style in spring hats, a fetching floral motif designed and produced by the famed couturier, Mother Nature. More smiling skies are on the way, the weatherman says, although moister air means a few more clouds and a faint possibility of showers. (Times photo by Halkett.)

Auditors Deny Blame In Sewer Deficit

The Victoria auditing firm of Ismay, Boiston and Dunn today denied it was in any way to blame for Saanich's "sewer fiasco" which revealed a $300,000 deficit on the $2,100,000 project.

Coun. Eugene Diespecker, at a municipal council meeting Tuesday night, strongly criticized the auditing firm for what he termed failure to inform last year's council of the impending deficit.

He suggested in future tenders be called for auditing the municipality's finances.

G. Fitzpatrick Dunn, partner in the auditing firm, said today: "We are absolutely amazed to hear that Coun. Diespecker blamed our firm for the sewer fiasco. In actual fact, the impending sewer project deficit was only brought to light because of special work we carried out without remuneration."

He said the firm repeatedly recommended to the former Saanich authorities that changes be made to the accounting department.

"We did extra work for the municipality which is not required under the Municipal Act," Mr. Dunn said. "We even assisted in revamping a part of the accounting system."

Miss H. Elliott, municipal accountant, confirmed that the auditing firm had provided extra services to the municipality.

Reeve Arthur Ash said Coun. Diespecker's opinions did not represent his views.

"After all, the former council

must share some of the responsibility for the sewer deficit," he said.

The reeve added that he is not against the suggestion that tenders be called to audit the municipality's books.

"This is often done by councils in Eastern Canada," he said.

Coun. Diespecker's criticism came when the auditing firm applied to council for a fee increase due to the increased volume of work.

Council turned down the request on the grounds that when a municipal administrator is hired, he will take over a large part of the auditing.

AT PRESENT ASSISTANT CHIEF OF STAFF, operations, for the flag officer, Pacific coast, Cmdr. Richard C. Chenoweth has been appointed naval attaché to the Canadian minister to Sweden and Finland, and on the staff of the ambassador of Canada to Norway, as naval attaché. His appointment is effective July 1. Born in Westmount, Que., Cmdr. Chenoweth entered the RCNVR in 1938, and transferred to the active force on the outbreak of war. This is his second tour of duty on the west coast.

Victoria Men Will Navigate East Swimmers

Victoria fishermen Alf Webb and John Veness have been engaged by Toronto swim coach Steve Mellors to navigate for two Juan de Fuca Strait marathoners he will bring here in mid-June.

Mellors wired Tuesday to say he would arrive with Fearnley Wheatcroft, 58, and Ted Simmons, 25, around June 15.

Both have swum in Lake Ontario and Wheatcroft swam the English Channel in 1938.

Earlier, Mellors said he might bring 19-year-old Shirley Campbell, 1955 Lake Ontario swimmer, with the other two.

Miss Campbell, however, would be coached by R. H. "Bert" Crockett of Victoria, her former swimming instructor in Fergus, Ont., her home.

She has expressed a keen interest in the Strait, but her Toronto sponsors hold the deciding vote whether she comes to Victoria this year.

Saanich Engineer Sets Retirement

H. D. Dawson will retire as Saanich municipal engineer this year.

Reeve Arthur Ash made the announcement at a council meeting Tuesday called to approve the 1956 budget. His retirement will become effective as soon as Saanich can engage an engineer to take over his office.

Mr. Dawson, who was appointed municipal engineer in 1947, is 68 years of age.

Mate Should Understand Wife's Depressive Moods

I believe that information and education concerning a woman's menstrual period, and its effect on her, should be an important part of all marriage counselling or preparation for marriage, for both the man and woman.

I am certain that the foundation for many divorces was laid, month after month, because of lack of information of this sort.

The guy marries a girl who has a sweet disposition. Suddenly she may become depressed, "weepy," sensitive, or completely unreasonable. The bewildered man doesn't know what is happening and so he lashes back. Even worse, or as sad, very often the woman doesn't know what is happening either. She has not correlated her "mood" with the time of month.

This is not a superficial idea or article. Many intelligent couples mill through years without recognizing this factor. Month after month comes the "blowup." Month after month they say things to each other which they really do not mean but which are pretty bitter. They are caught in a vicious circle, neither knowing why. Resentment builds up in both the man and the woman.

I am not suggesting that a woman take advantage of this situation. I am suggesting that if both the husband and wife are informed the woman will control herself to the best of her ability, and if she can't help blowing her top once in a while, if she is less gay and more sensitive, her husband will be sympathetic and understanding rather than bewildered and cruel.

If a woman recognizes this about herself she will not allow herself the luxury (perhaps penalty is a better word) of talking about anything serious or making any decisions at this time. Even if she feels like tearing her hair and throwing books, she will remain quiet, waiting for four days hence. She will not even allow her husband to trap her into an argument of any kind, should he come home from the office tired or discouraged.

With two informed, understanding, sympathetic people, this can become a household joke rather than a household tragedy. The magic phrase is, "What is the day of the month?"

We can be sure that this is an important factor in happy living when the distinguished Doctor Joseph H. Morton, assistant physician and endocrinologist, New York Medical Centre, says, "With the evidence of about 50 per cent of all menstruating women, premenstrual tension must be regarded as the commonest 'nervous' disorder of women." Some put the incidence even higher.

More tomorrow about this.

Bride's Close Family Should Not Give Shower

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, PhD

When custom and tradition decree that certain things be done in certain ways, a person should bow to these decrees, even at the expense of another's feelings.

Q.—I am writing in regard to a problem that is really having a field day at this time of year. My younger sister is getting married this spring and has asked me to have a bridal shower for her. I am very much opposed to this sort of thing because I have heard it referred to as a "bid for a gift" when a shower is given by a close relative, and I agree it looks like that. I think it is fine if a close friend or a co-worker honors a future bride but, at the same time, I certainly do not want to hurt my sister's feelings by refusing to give a shower for her. Am I being old-fashioned? I notice this is being done every day. I would appreciate your opinion on this matter.—L.B.

(A).—According to all rules of etiquette, members of the family of the bride do not give showers for her. As you have suggested, it looks too much like a "bid for gifts" and this, in turn, is regarded as being in poor taste.

I am sure your sister would understand if you explained this to her and would not want to put you or herself in a position where you could be criticized for doing something that is not supposed to be done. True, as you pointed out, it is being done every day, but that does not make it right nor does it eliminate criticism.

Why not suggest, as a substitute, a party for members of the family of the bride the night before the wedding, following the wedding rehearsal? Or, if this time has already been spoken for by someone else, a luncheon on the day of the wedding, if it is to be an afternoon wedding.

There is no question about the fact that showers help young brides-to-be get the equipment they need for setting up housekeeping. But, the family of the bride should not ask outsiders to do this. Friends of the family, on the other hand, can honor a future bride in this way and no criticism will follow.

This Lovely New Canadian Helps Immigrants Adjust

VANCOUVER — Beautiful blondes don't necessarily have to be dumb. Ask any of the men who speak—in any one of eight languages—to the beautiful blonde Master of Social Sciences who has recently been appointed Canadian Pacific Airline's Immigration Services representative in Vancouver.

Miss Beatrice Wallenstein's new job is to assist new Canadians. She will help re-unite immigrants with their relatives, straighten out their immigration problems and help them to budget for trips back home. The attractive 28-year-old Czechoslovakian is a new Canadian herself, who is in love with her adopted country.

"Canada's new sons and daughters must start a new life, but they need not leave the rich traditions and cultures of their homelands in their suitcases," says Miss Wallenstein.

"Instead they should give Canada the best they have to offer—straight from the heart."

Miss Wallenstein has been assisting immigrants ever since coming to Canada three years ago. Prior to joining CPA, she worked with the Intergovernmental Migration Committee for European Migration directing the movement of displaced persons and refugees to Canada. Last June she played cupid for a Vancouver man whose bride was half a world away. When Alfredo and Vincenza Brigilio were married, the bride was in Italy and the bridegroom in Vancouver. They were married by proxy with friends representing the missing party in each of the ceremonies.

Nearly a year later they were united in Vancouver, where Alfredo works as a barber. Beatrice Wallenstein's agency made the reunion possible by lending

English Visitor Interested in Helping Service Men's Families

BY ELIZABETH FORBES

This is Mrs. Alan Froy's first visit to Victoria. In fact, the first time she has been in Canada.

She is seeing a bouncing young grandson for the first time, too.

And she is enthusiastic in her praise for the baby, the Canadian scene and Victoria weather. "You have given me nothing but sunshine and blue skies since I arrived," she tells you and then—"Victoria is a wonderful place to live. You don't know how lucky you are."

This doesn't mean that Mrs. Froy is not proud of her own home and the countryside surrounding it in England. "I live in a very old farmhouse in a place called Bury, just outside Arundel, the seat of the Duke of Norfolk," she tells you.

"It is beautiful at this time of year!"

There is a "town place," too, because "my husband's business demands it." Mr. Froy is managing director of a large firm of builders' merchants in England where "Froy is a household name."

MANY DIFFERENT WAYS

When she has time, sailing is this interesting woman's greatest hobby and quietly—almost diffidently—she tells you that two years ago she came second in the world championships in the merlin rocket class—a dinghy type of craft, 14 feet long and carrying 110 feet of sail.

Will there be more racing? "No!" she says. "I'm through with all that. From now on I'll be sailing for pleasure only."

Another of Mrs. Froy's interests is in SSAFA, a soldiers', sailors and air force families' association that has been very active in the British Isles through the two world wars.

"It actually was started by Florence Nightingale in the Crimean War as a means of keeping in touch with the families of the soldiers," Mrs. Froy explains, "but it was reorganized during the First World War and now is very different to the original organization."

"We do all sorts of amazing things," she continued. "We help anxious parents to find out why their sons have not written; we assist in bringing boys home on compassionate leave, when necessary; we handle problems concerning the children and we try to arrange interests and projects for lonely wives."

Every county in England has its SSAFA president and secretary, Mrs. Froy tells you, and each tiny village, a representative. "It's all voluntary services, too," she adds.

In her own district, Mrs. Froy is in charge of an area of 22 square miles with Arundel as the centre. This includes 23 villages.

Newest activity of SSAFA is in the organization and running of young women's clubs and in this connection Mrs. Froy travels extensively and does quite a bit of lecturing. "No boring stuff, mind you," she says with a smile. "These are young women and they want to be entertained. We give them talks and practical demonstrations in needlecraft, art craft and other projects they can work at themselves."

"Last year we held a craft show in Arundel Castle," Mrs. Froy says proudly, "and we had 2,500 entries. Not only that, more than 10,000 people saw the show. You can see what an interest there is in this type of club."

Verbal Brickbats Fly At Federation Luncheon

OTTAWA (CP)—Two prominent women of opposing political camps engaged in a brief verbal clawing with utter politeness. It started with Mayor Charlotte Whitton being late for a luncheon.

Mrs. Cecile O'Regan, former president of the Ontario Liberal Federation, introduced head-table guests at Federation of French Canadian Women luncheon and coming to Miss Whitton, a staunch Conservative, said: "And the late mayor of Ottawa."

A murmur of surprise spread among the 500 Ontario and Quebec women at the luncheon. Miss Whitton had been held up by a board of control meeting. Her face was expressionless.

But when it came her turn to speak, she said acidly:

"Mesdames, Mrs. O'Regan has referred to the late mayor. As you know in English late means dead."

"I should like everyone—including Mrs. O'Regan—to know that the mayor lives. She lived yesterday, lives today and will live tomorrow."

"But there may be others who can be described as late."

IODE Chapter Plans Sale

Members of Sir James and Lady Douglas Chapter, IODE, are busy preparing for a rummage sale which will take place Friday in the Orange Hall, Courtney street, at 9 a.m. Final plans were made at a recent meeting.

Regent, Mrs. R. L. Brain, spoke on the provincial annual meeting in Vancouver. Reports from this meeting were also given by Mrs. H. M. Vantreight and Mrs. J. Thomas.

Membership convener, Miss A. Craddock, introduced two new members, Miss J. Roberts and Mrs. M. Loughheed, who received their membership pins from the regent.

An intercession service will be held in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, May 27, at which time the chapter hopes to have its new standard dedicated.

Flowers and magazines were donated to the Veterans' Hospital, and flowers will be placed at the Cross of Sacrifice, Ross Bay Cemetery, during the month of June.

PTA NEWS

Burnside—A successful spring tea and home cooking sale was held under auspices of Burnside PTA. Mrs. T. Stevenson was convener and the sum of $76.84 was realized. A program of dancing and music by pupils of grades 5 and 6 was enjoyed during the afternoon.

GIRL GUIDE NOTES

Langford—Strawberry short-cake tea, held Saturday by mothers of—first—Langford Brownie Pack, in the Canadian Legion Hall, resulted in $25 proceeds for pack funds. Masses of daffodils, tulips and narcissi were artistically arranged under convener'ship of Mrs. William McDowell. Tea was served at individual tables centred with polyanthus and grape hyacinth. Brownies in uniform assisted in serving. Mothers sold plants and home cooking. Mrs. T. McKay convoked kitchen duties. At a recent meeting of the mothers, it was decided to meet occasionally to assist the pack and to get a better understanding of the guide movement in their

Welcome Room Closes in June

Announcement was made at last meeting of the welcome room committee that the room will be closed on the holiday, May 21, and that it will be closed for the summer from June 16 to Sept. 17. Mrs. C. H. Willis presided and announcement was made that attendance in March was 382 and in April 378. Gifts and flowers were taken to shut-ins and 13 calls made in April, six of these to hospital patients. Mrs. Willis and Mrs. B. Cryer reported on the meeting in the city hall to consider senior citizen problems. Gifts of cake, cookies and wool were received and five new members joined the committee in the months of March and April.

As Pretty as a Spring Bouquet... This Trio of Ice Cream Desserts

Spring bouquets—could anything be lovelier to receive—or more fun to arrange in fanciful fashion! And just as it's fun to use your imagination in arranging pre-summer posies... the iris, the daffodil, the carnation... so as kitchen artist you can couple your imagination and inspiration to create some mighty picturesque desserts. Why not begin with ice cream desserts, to bring the sweetness of summer into your homes right now. Dessert ideas, stemming from ice cream, flourish because ice cream is the dairy food that lends itself so well to the creative touch. Besides, so many festivities—and family gatherings too—seem so right with ice cream as the finale to the occasion... children's parties, showers, receptions, luncheons, buffets and evening entertainment.

You'll notice that in each recipe the ice cream is whipped slightly... a rather new treatment for ice cream... but you'll find the results rather wonderful. In the whipping of ice cream, volume is reduced somewhat so that two quarts of ice cream will fit nicely into a 1½-quart size mold. Partlyish and pretty... that's our trio of ice cream desserts for those special occasions... whether it be family and friends or just family!

Black and White Ginger Loaf (makes 12 servings)—1 quart vanilla ice cream; 1 quart chocolate ice cream; ¾ cup crushed ginger snap cookies; ½ cup whipping cream, whipped and sweetened; ¼ cup chopped preserved ginger. Soften and whip one pint of vanilla ice cream and spoon into bottom of a lightly buttered 1½-quart size mixing bowl or the equivalent. Sprinkle with ¼ cup crushed cookies. Allow to freeze. Then repeat, using remaining chocolate and vanilla ice cream alternately with crushed cookies in between layers. Unmold on serving plate by placing a warm damp cloth around outside of pan for only two or three seconds. If outside surface of ice cream melts slightly, return to freezer until set. Garnish with whipped cream and top with chopped ginger. Note: For fewer servings, layer 3 pints of ice cream in a 1-quart bowl or a 5x9-inch loaf pan. This makes approximately nine servings.

A beribboned black and white ginger loaf.

Many various flavors of ice cream may be used in this recipe.

Strawberry Bomb (makes about 12 servings)—1 15-oz. package frozen strawberries; 1 quart strawberry ice cream; 1 quart vanilla ice cream; ½ cup whipping cream, whipped and slightly sweetened. Partly thaw frozen strawberries. Soften and whip strawberry ice cream slightly with a rotary beater or electric mixer. Spoon into bottom and along sides of a 1½-quart size buttered mold. Using back of spoon or rubber scraper, smooth ice cream so it is evenly distributed around the entire inside of mold, leaving the centre hollow. Freeze for several hours. Soften vanilla ice cream and beat. Spoon into hollow of mold and freeze again until solid. Unmold on serving plate by placing a warm damp cloth around mold for only 2 to 3 seconds. Garnish with partially thawed strawberries topped with whipped cream.

Gateau Glace (makes 10 to 12 servings)—Sponge Cake: 1 cup sifted cake flour; 2 teaspoons baking powder; ¼ teaspoon salt; ½ cup cold water; 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind; 2 egg yolks; ¾ cup sugar; 2 egg whites; 1 teaspoon lemon juice; 2 tablespoons sugar. To flour, add baking powder and salt and resift three times. Add water and lemon rind to egg yolks. Beat with rotary beater until light and foamy. Add sugar gradually, beating well after each addition. Add flour in small amounts, beating enough to blend. Beat egg whites until foamy. To them add lemon juice and 2 tablespoons sugar. Beat until stiff enough to stand in peaks. Fold into flour mixture. Turn into ungreased 8 or 9-inch tube pan. Bake in a slow oven (325°) for 45 minutes to 1 hour. Invert pan for 1 hour before removing cake. Split cake crosswise into 3 layers.

Filling: 1 brick vanilla ice cream. 1 cup whipping cream, whipped. Soften ice cream slightly and beat with rotary beater. Fold whipped cream into ice cream. Using tube pan as mold, spread mixture between layers of cake. Freeze for several hours.

Icing and topping: 1 cup whipping cream, whipped and sweetened. 1 (20 ounce) can pineapple chunks, ¼ cup artificial creme de menthe. Spread whipped cream over sides and top of cake. Return to freezer. Combine artificial-creme de menthe with pineapple chunks and juice and allow to marinate for about an hour. Drain pineapple and place on top of cake. When serving, pass the juice mixture to be poured over cake. Or, pass pineapple chunks and juice mixture combined. Note—Pineapple should not be frozen. If some of dessert is left over, remove pineapple and store in refrigerator.

How Was the Grand Canyon Made?

At one time, the ocean covered much of the Rocky Mountain region. A narrow trough of sea ran from Alaska to Mexico. Sand and silt collected in this basin. Ages later, it was to form layers of shale and sandstone. All this happened when the world was young. Only one-celled creatures, simple sponges and tube-like worms were there to leave their remains in the early deposits.

Millions and millions of years later, part of the western continent began to rise. The old earth humped her back. The ocean returned to its basin. The sandstone, limestone and shale rocks rose high above sea level. Meantime, the first simple creatures had changed and developed. The trilobites, ancestors of the crabs, lobsters, spiders and insects, had arrived.

Several times again the sea invaded the edges of the western continent. Each time, more limestone and sandstone were added to the earth's crust. With the last invasion, the Sierra Nevada began to lift up their heads. And 100,000,000 years ago, the proud tops of the Rockies began to make a ridge down the western side of the continent. Deep ancient layers of rocks from below were lifted high above the level of the sea. Countless strange animals were striding over the land and swimming in the seas. The first birds were flapping their huge pinions.

Fifty million years ago, the western continent was still far from quiet. There were seething volcanoes beyond anything we can imagine. Tons of brown-black lava poured out upon the Columbia Plateau. It covered 200,000 square miles, sometimes to a depth of 5,000 feet. The Rockies grew taller, the gentle Coastal Range and the snowy Cascades began to poke up their noses. The land bore flowering plants, cereals and grasses. Modern animals took over the world from the prehistoric monsters.

The western part of the continent was at last ready for a busy river to begin a job of art work and engineering. The river was the Colorado. The artistic job of work was the Grand Canyon. The job was started 50,000,000 years ago. It is still going on.

The source of the river was on the western slope of the growing Rockies. It ran down the high ground westward to the Gulf of California. It was always a swift river. Its current was strong. And its path lead through layers of ancient sandstone. These are soft rocks. The river could wear them away.

Bit by bit it cut deeper into its soft bed and banks. It cut out thousands of gorges as it twisted and turned. In 50,000,000 years, the swift current in some places has dug its bed a mile deep. Steep cliffs and terraces of sandstone line its banks. It has worn away rocks that took hundreds of millions of years to build.

Andy sends a year's subscription to Treasure Trails to Jane Campbell, aged 10, of Mount Sterling, Ohio, for her question:

Do sponges lay eggs?

We might expect a new sponge to grow from a bud. For living sponges look for all the world like plants. And some sponges do grow from buds. Though the sponge is an animal and not a plant.

A small, three-inch sponge may be formed from a dozen sponges. Each started as a bud sprouting out of the parent sponge. The family is so closely knit that it is hard to tell mother sponge from her daughters. The whole mass looks like a single sponge.

Other sponges, however, do begin life as eggs. The tiny eggs measure no more than a thousand to an inch. When they hatch, they leave home and swim off into the water. Many of these little larvae sponges are swallowed by fishes. Mostly this is by accident. For a fish will not eat a sponge if he can avoid it. The strange animals have a horrible smell and most likely a horrible taste.

The young sponges that survive soon give up their carefree life and settle down. They fix themselves on the ocean floor, on a rock or on the firm back of some large shell fish. There they stay for life. They grow slowly. A two-foot sponge may be all of 20 years old.

More CBC Control Over Radio-TV Urged by Manitoba Unions

WINNIPEG (CP) — Conflict of views on the controversial issue of an independent regulatory board for Canadian broadcasting were laid before the royal commission on broadcasting today.

Labor organizations representing 60,000 Manitobans in unions said there should be no such body.

The Canadian Legion of Manitoba and northwestern Ontario said there should be one.

The labor submissions were presented in a joint brief from the Manitoba Provincial Federation of Labor, the Winnipeg and District Trades and Labor Council and the central council of the One Big Union, representing around 12,000 miscellaneous Winnipeg area workers.

Against the argument of private broadcasters that CBC control over radio and TV should be narrowed, the labor group said it approves of CBC control and would prefer to see it extended rather than curtailed.

The proposal for an independent board had been a major point of the Canadian Association of Radio and Television Broadcasters, representing most of the private stations.

The union groups said the argument that a new board is needed because the CBC is in competition with the private broadcasters is "distorted" and based on a faulty foundation.

The three-man commission, now in its third day of western hearings, got a suggestion for lessened CBC control Tuesday from Clifford Sifton, member of a western publishing family and owner of Winnipeg's radio station CKRC.

He said CBC regulations inhibit private stations in giving service to the public and there

HAND-PICKED POLLEN TO SAVE APPLE CROP

PENTICTON — Hand-picked pollen from Okanagan Valley apple trees was sent Tuesday to Washington State where some growers face ruin unless they get the fertilizer for their trees.

Severe winter weather damaged the blossoms in many Washington orchards. The pollen will be applied from aircraft and from hand-operated atomizers.

Marilyn Monroe talks about herself!

This week Marilyn answers more of those provocative questions that have been stumping her fans for years! And she comes up with more of those famous off-beat "Monroisms"! Here are some of them.

Q. "Why don't you sunbathe?" A. "Because I like to feel blonde all over." Q. "What did you have on when they took that calendar photo?" A. "The radio." Q. "How do you now feel about that famous calendar pose?" A. "I'm saving a copy for my grandchildren."

Don't miss this exciting part of The New Marilyn Monroe by Pate Martin. Marilyn, and her closest associates, reveal things about her that even she herself doesn't know. Get your copy and read it today!

"Stop this senseless killing!"

On-the-job casualties took a toll of 1,930,000 men and women last year alone. And 14,200 of these resulted in death! This week, U.S. Secretary of Labor, James P. Mitchell, tells why, although some employers are to blame, two types of workers are their own worst enemies!

ETHEL MERMAN STARS IN STEEL HOUR PLAY ON C-11, 12 AT 7

TIMING—It has long been the contention of this column that many shows that might have succeeded were doomed from the outset because of being placed in a time slot against the heavy guns of a popular program. It is also our contention that the viewer is losing out in the battle of the networks.

As you may have read in the Times weekend TV Section, June Haves' "Willy" series is now enjoying a vastly superior rating as a re-run than it ever did when it was new. Reason given, of course, is the re-run's time slot. Instead of being mowed down by the big guns of better programs, it is now enjoying modest success while competing in its own class. This is something that conceivably could have been done in the beginning and thus saved the series, its stars, producers and sponsors the small embarrassment, not to mention money.

THIS matter of timing is obviously one of the reasons why Vancouver's CBUT faces such a disheartening task, combating the heavily fortified arsenal of major U.S. networks such as Ed Sullivan, Disneyland, Studio One and Kraft, etc., and of course, its all-Canadian programs like the Jackie Rae show, Cross-Canada Hit Parade, Wayne and Shuster, and so on.

No wonder Channel 2 gets such a comparatively small share of viewers in this neck of Canada where the competition is so fierce. For instance, Tuesday Almanac has to compete against the $64,000 Question. Later Channel 2's GM Theatre has opposition in Martha Raye and the Phil Silvers show. And on Wednesdays and Fridays the Almanac—one of CBUT's best—must lure away the fight fans, an almost impossible task.

AND THIS isn't the CBC's fault. Other U.S. stations and networks are faced with the same discouraging problem. Every time a U.S. network comes up with a good show, one most of us would like to see, more often than not it is slotted for the same time as an established favorite.

As an example, Wednesday night viewers who would normally enjoy the fight and Steel Hour's 20th Century-Fox play now must take their choice. One or the other program suffers accordingly, so do the ratings and, therefore, the actors, directors and, ultimately, the sponsors.

And, most of all, so do the viewers who, in the past, had been able to enjoy both. Let's hope the sponsors soon wake up to what is happening. Surely there is enough air time for all.

Aid for Retarded Children Planned for Summer Season

A non-curricular "activities group" for mentally handicapped children will be started this summer by the Greater Victoria Association for Retarded Children.

The association will accept children from six to 12 for the summer session which will be held in St. Barnabas Church hall, corner of Belmont and Begbie. The hall has been loaned to the association and will later be used as a school room.

Purpose of the summer activities group will be to give our children a chance to associate with others like themselves under supervision and help prepare them for our regular school," said association president Duncan Macphail.

"The summer session will also give us an opportunity to organize volunteer help and transportation, and separate children into appropriate work groups before we establish regular school classes," he said.

Such a school-preparation group could be carried in addition to regular school classes if space were available, according to Mr. Macphail.

Donations of equipment and toys are needed by the association to help establish the group. Interested parents are asked to make application in writing, stating age, and educational background of child, to P. F. Armstrong, 3557 Donald St., Victoria.

Stamps Once Farouk's on Display Here

Several thousand stamps, including some purchased from the ex-King Farouk collection, were on display at the Greater Victoria Philatelic Club exhibition at the Crystal Garden last weekend.

The exhibition also included several displays by the Victoria Junior Stamp Club and the Victoria Numismatic Society.

Robin Clarke won first prize in the cover section for his display of envelope covers which were dated around 1817 before postage stamps were in use. Postage was then based on mileage, so the city and distance to London, England, was stamped on the envelope.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Dunphy won first prize in the thematic section. The stamps in this collection contained maps of some part of the British Commonwealth.

Other winners in the various classes were: Covers, special award, Les Small; topical, first, B. de Tremaden, special, Ernest Busst; foreign, first, Mrs. Violet Molesworth, second, Merv Weynton; British colonies, first, Harry Wakefield, second, Walter Canady, special George Delahay.

Other junior winners were: Novice, first, Patsy Reed, second, Adele Stevens; British Empire, first, Wayne Fullerton, second, Marian Small; foreign, first, Helen Small, tied for second, Carol Garnot and Frances Steel; covers, first, Helen Small, second, Glenda Fay Kaiser; album class, first, Rodney James, second, Lorraine Cunningham, third, Gillian Wallace; tropical, first, Linda Kay, second, Sylvia Molesworth, third, Felicity Neave; Canada, Ken Webb, who also won the certificate award, second, Brian Small, third, Miss Neave.

As part of the opening ceremonies Saturday, the new flagpole at the club's Cadboro Bay anchorage will be dedicated. Honorary Commodore A. D. Crease will give the opening day address.

Informal races will be held during the afternoon, and there will be a dance in the clubhouse Saturday evening.

City Man Fined for 15c Pinball Payoff

Go Man was fined $50 and $5 costs or one month in jail when he pleaded guilty in city police court Tuesday to a charge of keeping a common gaming house at Quadra Market, 1725 Quadra.

The charge involved payoff on games on a pinball machine. Court heard that a police officer in plainclothes racked up three games and received 15 cents cash on April 26.

The pinball machine was ordered confiscated.

JET PILOTS KILLED
SHAW AIR FORCE BASE, S.C. (AP)—Three airmen were killed when their jet planes collided and crashed in flames about six miles south of this fighter base Tuesday. About the same time, to the north, at Langley field, Va., two B-47 jet bomber pilots were killed in a crash off the Virginia coast.

City Architect Wins Big Philatelic Prize

Henry Whittaker, partner in the architectural firm of Whittaker and Wagg, has been voluntarily stuck with stamps 63 years.

He's been collecting since the age of seven and today has a collection of 15,000 stamps, mostly from the Sudan, insured for $10,000.

Mr. Whittaker won a finely engraved silver medal award at the International Philatelic Exhibition held recently in New York at which there were 3,300 submissions from throughout the world.

In his collection are 20 volumes of stamps, oldest is one from the Sudan, dated 1897, the first issue published.

Neatness, arrangement, completeness and information concerning the stamps are the basis of judging submissions, he said. Rarity counts only 2 per cent.

He has won many past awards for his collection, including a bronze medal for a show in Toronto in 1952.

Mr. Whittaker, 1615 Hollywood Crescent, retired six years ago after 36 years with the provincial government, 35 of which were spent as chief architect. He was appointed assistant architect here in 1913 after previous service in the government of the Egyptian Sudan, then a British mandate.

It was during five years' service in the Sudan his interest in stamps of the area grew.

He is a past president of the Architects' Institute of British Columbia and also a former vice-president of the Royal Architectural Institute of Canada.

"My hobbies are stamp collecting and photography, but I think I prefer stamps," he says. He submitted five "frames," about 80 sheets with 10 stamps

World Boycott Asked On 'Slave' Goods

WASHINGTON (AP)—Labor Secretary James Mitchell said Tuesday night the United States will seek a world-wide boycott against goods produced by slave labor. He said the plan will be pushed at the meeting of the International Labor Organization at Geneva in June. It would be aimed chiefly at forced labor in Russia and Soviet satellites.

Nanaimo Playgrounds Damaged by Vandals

NANAIMO—City parks board chairman Turner, parks foreman, of was warned this week by Wil- "a definite move to tear up the playgrounds."

33 years of misery... ASTHMA and Chronic Bronchitis

If bronchial asthma sometimes makes you feel like a human wreck, see what happened to Mr. H. J. Reeder, Box 321, Arastang, B.C. He tells us: "When I was 45 years of age, I began to suffer from asthma and chronic bronchitis. At 78 years of age, I had not found the medicine I needed to get relief from attacks of coughing, wheezing and gasping for breath. Then I was introduced to Templeton's RAZ-MAH by a neighbour, and am thankful indeed to have learned about this comforting relief. Since using RAZ-MAH I breathe far more easily... sleep comfortably and am able to take pleasure in life again... get about without difficulty!" Enjoy quick relief from chronic bronchitis and asthma with Templeton's RAZ-MAH—only 79c and $1.50 at drug counters.

At Comox road park the veranda had been torn out, railings smashed, and fence broken. flower beds littered with rocks, and locks on swings broken, he said. Other playgrounds and downtown restrooms also had been damaged, he said.

To date RCMP have had no success in trying to catch the vandals responsible for the damage. He asked the park commissioners for "drastic action" to save the parks from being "smashed up entirely."

Witch Doctor's Brew May Help Cure Cancer

JOHANNESBURG (AP)—An ingredient in a snuff brewed by African witch doctors may prove an important clue in the search for a cancer cure, Johannesburg doctors said Monday. The doctor's discovered that African sufferers from cancer of the nose and sinuses were habitual takers of witch doctor snuff. They were unable to analyze the snuff except for a soot-like ingredient which they found to be a potent cancer-producing agent.

VC WINNER HERE FOR JAYCEE FAIR

Smokey Smith Hopes to Visit Italian Campaign Battle Sites

The three boys pointed to the small dark purple ribbon on the soldier's chest. It had a tiny Maltese cross made of bronze in the centre.

"What's that?" inquired one a little rudely.

They were about 14 years old, average boys, wearing jeans and jackets. Without waiting for a reply the second said:

"What kinda medal is it?"

"It's probably tin," the third wisecracked.

The soldier had not replied. He seemed a little nonplussed, even amused, and let the teenagers kibitz until they took up a new topic.

HE WAS FIRST

His name is Sgt. Ernest Alvin "Smoky" Smith, 42, first Canadian non-commissioned ranker to win the Victoria Cross in the Second World War.

This week he is in Victoria manning an army recruiting booth at the curling rink in the Jaycee fair.

Although the youngsters may not know him, may never have seen a VC decoration, millions of Canadians will remember when "Smoky Smith" was a household name as Canadian forces inched their way through some of the war's heaviest fighting in Italy.

He was a private with Vancouver's Seaforth Highlanders when he won the highest award for valor in the Savio River bridgehead, Oct. 21, 1944.

U.K. BOUND

Sgt. Smith and hundreds of other VC winners the world over are being remembered by the Commonwealth next month in a special series of celebrations in London, Eng., marking the 100th anniversary of the Victoria Cross.

SMOKY SMITH... and "piece of tin"

30 days leave overseas, a switch from when Canadian forces longed to get back to Canada after a spell of overseas service.

Back home, awaiting his return about the end of July will be Esther, his wife, and children, David, 14, and Norma Jean, eight.

To help defray expenses of the trip, for which passage is provided by the government, the city of New Westminster has given Sgt. Smith $100.

Gas Loan Stirs All-Out Fight

TCA Orders Jet Liners For Cross-Canada Service

Trans-Canada Air Lines announced today it is buying U.S.-built jet airliners powered by British engines to link Vancouver and Toronto in four hours and 10 minutes.

Present TCA time for the flight is about nine hours and 20 minutes. The new jets will enable a passenger to leave Toronto at noon, Eastern time, and arrive in Vancouver slightly after 1 p.m., Pacific time.

Heralding the start of the jet transport age in Canada, TCA said it has ordered four intercontinental four-jet aircraft, and taken an option on two more.

The American-built planes, Douglas DC-8s, will be powered by British Rolls-Royce Conway turbo-jet engines. Costing some $5,500,000 each, the aircraft will represent an investment of nearly $28,000,000 with spare parts.

UBC RESULTS THURSDAY COLLEGE, PAGE 6

University of British Columbia results will be published in Thursday's editions of the Victoria Daily Times. Results of final examinations at Victoria College are published today on page 6.

Pat Bay Ruled Out For New Giant Jets

Trans-Canada Air Lines' new airport manager, said today it would be up to TCA to make representations to Ottawa if it was thought necessary to increase runway length.

The jet giants, due in 1960, will need 8,750 feet of runway—one and three-fifths miles—for take-offs, and 6,700 feet for landings.

At present, Patricia Bay can be used by TCA's transcontinental aircraft if Vancouver "socks in." Two runways are 5,000 feet long, one 5,030 feet.

Cypriot Riots Leave 3 Dead, Hundreds Hurt

ATHENS (AP)—Greek mobs inflamed by the impending execution of two Greek-Cypriot terrorists burned a Union Jack in Athens' main square, attacked the U.S. information service office and demonstrated against Britain today in riots which left two killed and 120 injured.

Police said rioters opened fire on them, which led to an exchange of bullets, in addition to stoning and clubbing.

Police headquarters said 80 demonstrators and 40 police were injured, some with bullet wounds. Hospitals reported two dead.

NICOSIA, Cyprus (Reuters)—British troops charged with clubs and fired over the heads of shouting demonstrators in Limassol today shortly after a British officer was killed in a separate outbreak at Paphos. Violence and fears of a major anti-British revolt wracked this Mediterranean island colony as Greek Cypriots demonstrated against Tuesday's decision to execute two convicted terrorists.

The jets are scheduled for delivery early in 1960 and will be available to service long-haul trans-Atlantic and trans-continental routes later this year.

CAN CARRY 120
Capable of carrying 120 passengers and three tons of cargo, the DC-8 will cruise at about 550 miles an hour at about 35,000 feet, an airline statement said.

The four-jet planes would be capable of flying from Montreal to London in six hours and 10 minutes.

Provision for weather-detecting radar and all the latest improvements will be standard on all DC-8s, TCA said. Certain details regarding interior arrangements were being worked out with the manufacturer, the Douglas Aircraft Company Inc. of Santa Monica, Calif., but it was expected the aircraft will accommodate both first and tourist-class passengers.

"We can run extra sections at peak travel periods," he said. North Stars and Viscounts are occasionally used on the run, when needed and available.

He pointed out that planes capable of carrying heavier loads than the present aircraft aren't needed on the short, frequent service.

Gregg Issues New Appeal To Seamen

MONTREAL (CP)—The Association of Lake Carriers today announced that wage negotiations have broken down and it faced the Seafarers' International Union with the challenge of a united front in a strike scheduled for Thursday.

E. Macaulay Dillon, counsel for the association, said the seven members of the association stand ready to deal with the union, but only as a group, although only two shipping companies are threatened with a strike by the SIU.

Mr. Dillon also disclosed that the association has informed the SIU that it considers "every contract understanding or undertaking" at an end because of the threatened strike action.

He said Labor Minister Gregg has directed a second plea to H. Banks, SIU Canadian director, offering mediation in the dispute which involves in all 5,000 men aboard some 280 lake vessels.

EMPIRE STADIUM SITE FOR MASS BINGO GAME

VANCOUVER (CP)—A Burrard service club is planning what it expects to be the biggest mass bingo game ever held in Canada. The site will be 34,000-seat Empire Stadium.

Officials of the Lions Club Tuesday said all proceeds from the bingo, June 16, will go to charity. Two cars, one in the luxury category, will be on the list of prizes.

The club has taken-out insurance in case of rain cancelling the affair.

Oakalla Rioters Face New Charge

But Action Delayed Until Probe Of Convicts' Case by A-G

Three desperate criminals who held a razor to an Oakalla Prison guard's neck Monday night to win a review of their case may face further charges as a result of their actions.

Meanwhile prison authorities scattered the trio to different parts of the jail. Each is under special guard today.

Warden Hugh Christie disclosed he had moved two prisoners to another wing in the prison, and the third to a different cell in the west wing, where the trouble occurred.

A government legal official said today the three convicts "could be prosecuted" for threatening the life of guard Ernie Loveless.

Deputy Attorney-General H. Alan Maclean, who promised "under a certain amount of duress" to review the convicts' case, confirmed that charges could be laid.

But he said the A-G's department would not even consider the matter until the review of the False Creek hearing case in which the three men were involved is completed.

MAY TALK TO GORDON

"Before any consideration is given in that regard, I intend to apply myself to my undertaking—to look into the case," said Mr. Maclean.

The trio, Robert Tremblay, 35, Marcel Frenette, 29, and Charles Talbot, 37, were convicted of the attempted murder of Thomas Kinna in Vancouver's False Creek flats areas.

A key witness in their conviction, Robert Gordon, who is now serving time in Nelson provincial prison, may be personally interviewed by Mr. Maclean.

"I don't know yet," said the deputy A-G when asked whether he would discuss the case with Gordon. "It is possible."

Mr. Maclean will leave for Vancouver Friday to carry out part of the re-examination of the trio's case.

He divulged that Gordon has made statements to police officers and others, apart from his evidence in the trial of Frenette, Tremblay and Talbot.

Mr. Maclean said a statement taken from the three men by Vancouver Province city editor Bruce Larsen, who bargained for guard Loveless' life with an extra edition of his newspaper, has not yet been received.

"The newspaper phoned me. They said it was in yesterday afternoon's mail," said Mr. Maclean.

The deputy said two courses of action are possible in the case of prisoners who "misbehave."

"One, they can be prosecuted, and two, in addition, or substitution, they can be tried in warden's court."

The warden of a prison is provided with a set number of penalties he can impose on unruly prisoners.

100,000 See England Beat Brazil Eleven

WEMBLEY, Eng. (UP)—Tommy Taylor and Colin Grainger each scored two goals but Stan Matthews, a veteran of scores of international soccer matches, drew the bulk of the cheers from a crowd of 100,000 today as England defeated Brazil, 4-2.

The 41-year-old Matthews, romping on the lush green turf of Wembley Stadium like a 20-year-old, set up both of Taylor's goals and one of Grainger's tallies.

The H-bomb explosion now is tentatively set for Friday morning (Thursday afternoon in Victoria) after having been delayed Tuesday by the third time because of unfavorable wind conditions.

In considering eventualities, the United States weapons expert said they are prepared to handle even the possibility that the nuclear weapon might plummet to earth without exploding after it leaves the B-52 Stratofortress 50,000 feet in the air.

Commons Begins Sharp Battle On Big Project

OTTAWA (CP)—The government faces a bitterly hostile opposition in its coming attempt to win within a month parliamentary approval of a massive treasury loan to the long-delayed cross-Canada natural gas pipeline.

Liberal strategists already are considering whether the government should apply closure to get the loan through the Commons.

Closure is a rarely-used parliamentary device to end prolonged debate and force a vote on a major controversial issue.

Conservative and CCF parties have indicated they will put up an all-out delaying fight.

(Times Ottawa correspondent Victor J. Mackie reported this afternoon the Conservatives consider the pipeline loan as one of the best political issues ever handed to them by the St.

Laurent government. "They will fight the legislation every step of the way through Parliament," Mackie reported.)

Formal notice of Mr. Howe's resolution was printed on the Commons order paper today. Debate will start Thursday or Friday. This resolution must be adopted before the loan legislation is introduced.

Mr. Howe's resolution seeks authority for a total of $130,000,000 to be outstanding at any one time in federal loans and advances on the western and Ontario portions of the 2,200-mile line.

It would be the crown corporation, set up by the federal administration in co-operation with Ontario, which would take possession of Trans-Canada's assets in the event of default.

The northern Ontario link, which would be rented out to Trans-Canada, is estimated to cost about $18,000,000, of which about one-third would be put up by the Ontario government and the remainder by Ottawa.

HOWE JEERED

In the Commons Tuesday, Mr. Howe met jeers from Conservative and CCF benches as he outlined details of the loan.

Mr. Drew termed it subsidy on a grand scale and an attempt by Liberal members to bail Mr. Howe out of the confusion into which he had plunged the government.

He appealed to Prime Minister St. Laurent for a Commons committee examination of the scheme and of possible alternatives.

"ENORMOUS PROFITS"

The CCF leader called for public ownership and said the present plan would mean "building enormous profits for U.S. private buccaners."

Mr. Coldwell challenged the government to take the issue to the voters now "to see what will happen to them."

"I am convinced, from correspondence and from people with whom I am in contact, that there was never a more unpopular proposition put before the people of Canada than this one is."

From the Social Credit party, however, came a tentative welcome to the plan. Victor Quelch (SC, Acadia) said his party is glad an immediate start will be made.

800 Policemen Guard Winnie On German Visit

AACHEN, Germany (UP)—City authorities announced today some 800 policemen equipped with fire hoses will guard Winston Churchill against mob violence during his first post-war visit to Germany.

The 81-year-old former prime minister, who is this year's winner of Aachen's Charlemagne prize for aid to European unity, arrives by air from Britain today to receive the award.

His visit has aroused strong protests, spearheaded by young Nationalist hoodlums and "expellees" from East Germany who charge Churchill bartered away their homes to the Communists at the fateful Yalta Conference.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

MERCIFUL GOD, we thank Thee today for those who minister to the sick in mind or body. We are grateful for the sense of dedication and high vocation which motivates our doctors and nurses. Give them continued patience, wisdom and understanding, and skill in all their ministrations; through Jesus Christ, Amen.

Newsman Tells Story Of 'Life Trade' Drama

... hero of prison ordeal.

By BRUCE LARSEN
Vancouver Province City Editor
VANCOUVER (CP)—Bob Tremblay, Marcel Frenette and Charlie Talbot went to the brink of murder Monday to gain assurance that "their story" will be told.

That story is basically a claim of monstrous frame-up.

I traded them this story for the life of a good Okalla officer.

As I promised Tremblay, I am undertaking to tell their story as accurately as I can. I insisted on my reservation to stay within the bounds of reason and the law.

Here is the story as it came from the three prisoners who held guard Ernie Loveless hostage. Some detail—at Tremblay's request—comes from another Okalla inmate who was convicted with them of the attempted murder of Thomas Kinna.

Some of their story, because we must stay within our privilege in law as a newspaper, cannot be told here. My undertaking there was that I would pass that part on to the attorney-general's office. "We never had a fair trial," insisted Tremblay at the start of the half-hour interview that ended with Loveless' release.

"The fact is that we had a newspaper trial."

"We want a chance to get in the box—at the trial the lawyers advised us to stay out."

"We want the attorney-general to study what we have that didn't get into the courts—and decide if he should intervene—whether there is proper grounds to intervene."

"When that material is being considered by Mr. Maclean (deputy attorney-general Alan Maclean) we want Mr. Hill (Larry Hill, Tremblay's trial lawyer) present and we want Bruce Larsen there for newspapers. We want our stuff tested by points of law—nothing else."

"If they want us to testify—take us there."

"I'd rather not be present when Gordon (Robert Gordon, a Nelson, B.C., logger, testified against the prisoners at their trial) was there so he'll talk freely. I want it all done in B.C."

Tremblay several times repeated one comment:

"If we had wanted to escape from here we could have done it a dozen times. All I'm asking is that it go by law."

Tremblay said that he did not think that much weight should be given to the testimony of the analyst "about bloodstains on the back of my trousers and a grass stain on my knee the size of a baseball. He claims he burned the patches because they were useless. If that is evidence against us—where is it now?"

That in essence, is what Tremblay wanted said.

He wanted that published along with what I'd taken down earlier from Jimmy Malgren and from Charlie Talbot.

Tremblay had intended to wait until our newspaper was on the street with the story before he released Loveless. Persuasion that their case would be stronger if Loveless left then with me finally won out and the guard was freed.

Private Contractor Upsets Saanich Bid

Saanich council Tuesday received a last-minute surprise when a private contracting firm outbid the Saanich engineering department for the $220,000 waterworks program to be undertaken this year.

The tender submitted by Christian and Allan Ltd., of Ladner, was for $185,000, as compared with $217,028 bid of the municipality, representing a saving of $31,972.

Council will consider the bid at a special meeting next Monday.

The firm's bid arrived a day late because no private contractor had due to the failure of the Royal Oak submitted a bid for the work. Council believed private firms were not interested in the project.

KNOW YOUR TEACHER

In the belief that parents of children attending schools in the Greater Victoria area are interested in knowing about personalities of the teachers who educate them, The Times continues a series on "Know Your Teacher." The articles will appear three times a week. The Teachers' Association is co-operating.

Name it, and if it is a sport George Andrews has played it. Everything from table tennis and chess to diving, canoeing and football.

His background suits him admirably for the task of physical education director at Victoria High School, a full-time occupation.

Athletics take up so much of his time that he barely crowds in instructions periods on health and personal development prescribed by the course of studies.

Mr. Andrews was born in Victoria in 1917, attended Spring Ridge, George Jay and Victoria High schools before winning an athletic scholarship to the University of Oregon, where he took a BSc in physical education.

In 1942 he went into the RCAF, became a pilot and was attached to the RCN Fleet Air Arm on the east coast, and later served at Patricia Bay with 122 Co-operation Squadron. He left the air force in 1945 and worked a year for the provincial government.

Then for a year he played professional basketball with Vancouver Hornets, and decided to take a 12-month course in massage and hydro-therapy, which took him to Toronto.

On his return, he went to the Alberni district to work in a MacMillan and Bloedel mill and while there decided to start teaching in the junior-senior high school, staying two years.

Since 1950 he has been at Victoria High, where he has close contacts. His brother Joe is a science and biology teacher, and principal Harry Dee was one of

George's teachers before he left Victoria High.

He also coaches senior basketball—the Totems—and assists with coach work for the track team. Outside school his main interest is basketball, a game he played at Oregon on the varsity team.

In fact, basketball was responsible for his winning the scholarship. He was among Canada's finest ball players.

Mr. Andrews took active part in all sports at school and at university, and still holds track records for the broad jump and shot put set for Victoria High in 1935.

He lives with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Andrews, 5121 Cordova Bay road.

Health Board To Decide On Raw Milk Sale

City Council health committee referred dairyman A. G. Lambrick to Union Board of Health when he appeared at City Hall Tuesday with signatures representing 11,000 persons on Lower Vancouver Island wanting freedom to choose between raw and pasteurized milk.

He pointed out that provincial authorities had passed a bill making sale of raw milk illegal and the bill can be implemented at any time. Municipalities have the right to pass by-laws, however, permitting raw milk sales. He said small farmers lose about 40 per cent of their dairy income if forced to halt raw milk sales.

B.C. Man Charged In $200,000 Fraud

VANCOUVER (CP)—Police today charged Goodman Florence, 35-year-old business consultant, with conducting a fraudulent investment scheme which cheated speculators of up to $200,000.

Truman Passes 72nd Milestone; No Party

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP)—Former President Truman was 72 Tuesday but there was no birthday party at his home here. He and Mrs. Truman took an early morning train from Kansas City for New York, where they will sail aboard the liner United States Friday on a trip to Europe. Truman will receive an honorary degree from Oxford University June 20.

Officers said the fraud detectives are still investigating ramifications of the scheme which they said was in the form of a retirement fund. Some 40 witnesses will be heard in the case. They said individual investors lost between $500 and $9,000.

Florence was remanded for one week when he appeared in police court today. Lawyer David Slivers said he had no instructions to ask for bail.

SILENT SKIPPER

The skipper of the 38-foot fishing craft Frontier I sits on the rail of his vessel and refuses to talk with reporters after the ship ran aground 40 miles west of Vancouver. The skipper, who declined to give his name, stuck with the Frontier I after it was lashed to the side of a tug and towed to Nanaimo, B.C. He suffered cuts about the head and face in the grounding. The Frontier I is registered in the name of Victor Wilkman of Vancouver.

AROUND AND ABOUT

With Jo Healy

CAYUSE—I'd like to have been at the current Music Festival at Duncan on the evening that the audience disgraced itself by uncalled-for applause. Except that I'm afraid I'd have further disgraced myself by uncalled-for meppiment.

When this community's promising young pianist sat at the piano to play that night he was quite horrified to find himself overwhelmed by an unaccustomed nervousness. His hands became clammy and began to tremble; his meticulous mind refused to operate with anything resembling its well-trained finesse. So he did the only possible thing—hammed his way through the performance and walked the long way across the stage to his place while applause thundered through the auditorium. Whereupon the adjudicator grose and thundered denunciation upon an audience who gave a standing ovation for an improperly-rendered selection. Of the scattered few who were amused, one was the young pianist, who benefits by expert criticism, even the most scathing. Seems to me the kind of sense of humor that allows one to laugh at one's self must be one of the necessary attributes of a fine artist. This lad has it. And while his music is the most important thing in his life, I've yet to see him take himself too seriously—a talent and a characteristic that will, I think, mold him into one of Canada's finest future musicians.

If any readers mistook that picture of Old Satchmo (a couple of columns ago) for old Jo Healy—wasn't so. I never get photographed without my glamor glasses.

News item: City beat policemen don't like the idea of marching to and fro from their stations behind a sergeant. Got us discussing what we thought was once one of Victoria's smartest sights—a company of helmeted "bobbys" marching briskly down the street, each one "falling off" with military precision as he reached his respective beat.

This works . . . for hiccups . . . plug both ears with index fingers and swallow a tumbler full of water without drawing a breath. Can be done by yourself with much manoeuvring of water glass on edge of table. Hiccups gone, just be careful not to cut your toes or catch pneumonia from wet feet.

Except for the potential threat of forest fires, this sunny weather leaves us very little to complain about. The danger of which we are all much aware, however, was brought very close to home when one of my friends and I were en route to Duncan the other day. By the side of the main highway we spied a thick wisp of smoke rising from last fall's carpet of tinder-dry leaves. Like true woodsmen we stopped the car, stamped out the fire and as an added precaution covered the area with gravel. The fire was started from a burning, hanky-sized piece of wool material, obviously dropped from a passing automobile. To believe that it had been deliberately thrown into the wooded area would be too far-fetched, but here was an example of flagrant carelessness that leaves us with the haunting fear that not only our hard-won and very precious road is endangered by some careless fool, but the simple fact of our livelihood—the forest itself. So please, everyone—be careful this fire season and all the ones to come.

Guide Bright Pupils From Start—Expert

LADYSMITH, B.C. (CP)—mous competition for brains" in Only half the really bright students go on to university, Dr. S. R. Laycock said Tuesday.

Scholarships at the university level are too late to retrieve all the potential students that could go on to higher learning, he said in an address to the Ladysmith and Chemainus District Teachers' Association.

Teachers in primary grades could serve as talent scouts to discover the gifted child who could then be guided through channels of learning suited to his capacity.

Dr. Laycock, former dean of education at the University of Saskatchewan, forecast a great upsurge of interest in gifted children because of an "enormous competition for brains" in the world today.

A national conference to study problems of exceptional children may be called by the federal government within two years.

So said Mrs. Ernest Evans of Victoria, president of the Canadian Home and School and Parent-Teacher Federation addressing 500 delegates to the recent Quebec Federation of Home and School Associations in Montreal.

She said the proposed conference would consider not only children with physical and mental handicaps but all types of "exceptional" children, the gifted, the emotionally disturbed children and the socially maladjusted.

New Way Relieves Arthritic, Rheumatic Pain Without Pills

Greaseless, odorless cream penetrates deep, speeds flow of fresh, rich blood into sore areas, helps drive away pain-causing pressure.

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—Science has now developed an odorless, greaseless cream that acts in a new way to bring hours and hours of relief from pains of arthritis and rheumatism—without the need of taking pills and other medicines that may upset the system.

Rubbed gently into painful areas, this cream penetrates so deep it actually vanishes into the skin. It speeds the flow of fresh, rich blood into sore muscles, joints. Actually helps drive away pain-causing pressure and congestion.

Used by doctors in England, France and the U.S.A., this remarkable cream is now available without prescription at drug stores everywhere. Ask for Infrarub. Only $1.39 a large tube. Infrarub is guaranteed to give comforting relief from arthritis-rheumatism pains or your money back.

1.5-Mill Boost in Taxes Set for Central Saanich

SAANICHTON—Central Saanich Tuesday struck a tax rate of 26 mills, allowing 15 mills for schools, 10 mills for general purposes, and one mill for local improvements.

It represents an increase of one and one-half mills over the rate of 24½ mills last year.

Municipal clerk Don S. Wood, in presenting budget to council, reported that $22,600 had been allocated for works expenditures during the current year.

Central Saanich share of school district 63 costs will be $54,000.

Other items were: Municipal administration, $13,535; fire department, $2,400; police department, $7,370; street lights, $150; health and welfare, $13,850; park board, $450; library, $6,000; inspector's expenses, $1,400; road debentures, $3,335; interest, $491; bank interest, $350; civil defence, $150; grants, $50; garden, $50; drainage, $1,000.

Capital expenditures: Office equipment, $150; fire department, $3,100; works department, $150.

Majority of the council favors purchase of a new fire truck to replace the 20-year-old second-hand vehicle at present being manned by the municipality's volunteer fire department.

Zoning by-law 64 was passed by council, rescinded to permit minor alterations, and re-passed, all within a few minutes.

It was done on the advice of C. R. Leighton, chairman of the Town Planning Commission, who pointed out that introduction of an amendment would involve the holding of another public meeting.

Proposal to erect a 500-capacity chicken house on the former Ronson property on Verdier avenue brought about the change in zoning regulations.

Granting of such a proposal, said Mr. Leighton, would mean the establishment of a chicken farm right in the middle of Brentwood.

Suggestion of Coun. John B. Windsor, adopted, that no farming such as raising chickens or fur-bearing animals considered obnoxious to residents be permitted in a designated area.

Council has ordered out a spray truck to fight the growing infestation of caterpillars. Only the trees and bushes at the roadsides can be sprayed, however, and the authorities are appealing to property owners to co-operate.

The question of building a new culvert across Stealy's crossroad to carry off water from Hagan's creek got an affirmative nod from council.

There was talk of employing an engineer to make a survey, but after considerable discussion council inclined to the work being done by the works department.

Because of the "aesthetic and cultural" value so evident, Butchart's Gardens will be allowed to erect signs of artistic design at intersection points on Central Saanich highways.

Central Saanich council, on the motion of Coun. Peter Warren, decided that a by-law be prepared to permit the sale of raw milk in the municipality.

'MAKESHIFT FARMER'

Ex-Governor Fights Big Drain on Well

Claiming to be only "a makeshift farmer," W. C. Woodward, former B.C. lieutenant-governor, department store operator, and owner of Woodwynn Farm on West Saanich road, appeared before Central Saanich municipal council Tuesday.

He was opposing proposed use of federal department of transport to supply Patricia Bay camp with water.

Mr. Woodward said the use of the well by the government would so lower the water table that it would "practically finish the valley" (Mount Newton).

TOO EXPENSIVE

He said his farm had been using the water from Stewart's well for nine years, but it had not been available now for months.

"The government says it is too expensive," he said.

The department of transport has been using Elk lake water supplied to Patricia Bay by a 12-inch main and notified the Brentwood Water District, also linked up to the system, that it would not require water from Elk after March 31.

The Brentwood board was notified it would be given plenty of notice regarding developments and that is how the situation stands.

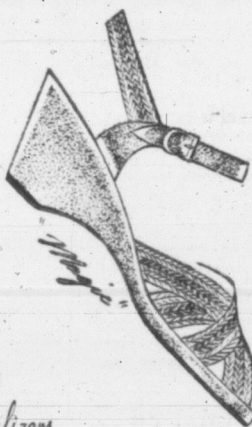

The government, it is understood is still pumping water from Elk lake.

On motion of Councillor Windsor, council instructed the municipal clerk to communicate with government authorities in Ottawa and Victoria, also to the parliamentary and legislative members, stating that heavy use of the well by the department of transport would "desolate the valley."

MARKET SUMMARIES BUSINESS ROUNDUP

Aluminium Gains $1.25

TORONTO (CP)—Stock market prices slipped lower today with light resistance coming from senior base metals, and selected issues in the industrial and western oil lists.

Oils scored an early advance on favorable news of the proposed trans-Canada natural gas pipeline, but most of the lead was whittled down in profit-taking.

Industrials moved sluggishly with changes inside two points. Power Corporation gained $1.75 at $57.75. Aluminium was one of the better performers with a $1.25 advance at $32.75 although trading ex-dividend.

Calgary and Edmonton advanced 87 cents in western oils. Britisha, Home H. General Pete A and Canadian Export Gas were ahead 20-25 cents.

NEW YORK

NEW YORK (AP)—Railroads today stood out strongly in a moderately higher stock market.

Price changes ran around 4 points in either direction, a rather wide spread, with most changes higher.

Railroads were at the front of the rise but they weren't particularly active.

Among higher Canadian stocks, Aluminium Ltd. gained 1%, Hudson Bay Mining 1%, Canadian Pacific 1% and International Nickel 1%. Distillers Seagrams fell 1%.

LONDON

LONDON (Reuters)—Operators were reluctant to extend commitments on the stock market today because of the absence of incentives and Tuesday's fall on Wall Street.

Small falls predominated in Industrials. The strong feature was a sharp rise in Hudson's Bay issues on the news that a federal loan of $72,000,000 had been granted for the Alberta-Montreal gas pipeline.

Stock closings: Babcock and Wilcox 80s, Blythwoods 22s 9d, Bowater Paper 59s 9d, British-American Tobacco 51s 9d, British Celanese 22s 4 1/2d, Canadian Pacific 56 1/2d.

Bonds: British 2 1/2% consols 54 1/2d, British 3 1/2% war loans 57 1/2d, British fundings 4 1960-1990s.

VANCOUVER

VANCOUVER—An active market with prices slightly higher.

Quintana made the spotlight today with a sale of 36,500 shares at a low of 80, high 84 and last sale at noon 81.

North West Ventures sold 10,500 at 33. National Exploration moved 4,000 at 65. Highland Bell traded 11,500 at 77. Futurity moved 3,000 at 55. Sparmax traded 12,500 at 31. Van-Tor sold 11,200 at $13.33.

Yankee Princess moved 11,000 at 81. Silver Standard sold 4,500 at 70. Skeena moved 7,000 at 40. Trojan traded 12,500 at 63. Utica sold 8,000 at 6. Vanda traded 3,000 at 5.80. Inland Gas sold 3,000 at $5.80.

MONTREAL

MONTREAL (CP)—Price changes were limited to about a point as industrials were mixed to slightly easier in active afternoon dealings today on the Montreal and Canadian stock exchanges.

Aluminium and Hudson Bay lost a point each to lead the decline in base metals. Montreal slipped 1/2% as banks moved lower. Utilities were mixed in a narrow range.

BETWEEN TIMES

By
MONTE ROBERTS

People are more fun than anybody.

Something new has been added . . . it is now possible to discern Andy Stephen's moustache at 20 paces . . . on a clear day. Something old has been subtracted . . . former mayor Claude Harrison turned up at the Royal Roads graduation ceremonies minus his cloak . . . didn't seem right, somehow.

If you'd like a short, sharp funny, ask John Priestley to tell you about the husband who was always in the doghouse but . . .

Premier Bennett told the Secords in Saskatchewan not to worry about the men . . . but to concentrate on the women . . . who hold the balance of power . . . things in Saskatchewan must be much the same as they are at our house.

Albert Smith of Pacific Salvage Co. reports one of his frogmen-type divers went down to a depth of 150 feet looking for a PGE boxcar . . . a commendable feat, Albert, but I've known craps shooters who have gone down deeper than THAT with box-cars.

(If I need to explain to Aunt Mathilda, that's . . .)

Stan Kendall is very cross because I didn't say which service club is going to fine him for having his name in this space . . . (you remember, I promised never to mention Stan Kendall's name here again, because it costs a dime a time) . . . well, anyway, Stan says I should have said Kendall belongs to the Camosun Gyros . . . and, as Stan puts it, there will be a great commotion come next Tuesday. . . . This is a pun, son?

This will be the last time Stan Kendall's name gets into Between Times, as it costs him too much money . . . all of it extracted by the Camosun Gyro's sheriff, Ron Jeune. . . Ron Jeune, they tell me, is quite an expert at extracting, even though he is an optometrist by trade, not a dentist . . . well, get in there and extract, Ron . . . and by the time the boys get through with you, Jeune may be bust-in' out all over.

Stop spinning in your grave, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow. . . Mrs. Warren knew you wrote "When The Day Is Done" and that in it you included the like-the-Arabs-silently-tents business. . .

Sorry about my last bit of misinformation in re Marlene . . . she got the licence okay, but it was for her dog, an Irish-Mexican named Chicta Juanita y Alvarez y O'Toole.

Phoned a man last night, and said this was Monte, and he said "Which Monte? Monty Watson, Monty Locke, Monty Montgomery or Monty Drake?"

Said I would have the last-mentioned Monty drop up and sue him sometime.

People certainly ARE more fun than anybody.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES

Victoria City Comptroller Dennis A. Young will address a meeting of Victoria Civic Voters' Association at City Hall, May 16, in council chambers. Meeting starts at 8 p.m.

His topic will be "Determination of the Mill Rate and Capital Financing." There is no admission charge and the meeting is open to the public.

Greater Victoria Intermunicipal Committee meets Friday at 2 p.m. at City Hall. Victoria-Esquamalt Union Board of Health will meet at 3 p.m. Monday, and Victoria-Saanich Beaches and Parks Committee will hold a meeting and annual tour of district recreational facilities Wednesday, starting at 9 a.m.

Monthly meeting of the James Bay Community Association will be held Thursday at 8 p.m. in the association hall, corner of Dallas Road and Pilot Street.

Greater Victoria Celebrations Association will cancel invitations sent two United States drill teams to take part in Victoria Day parade here unless more Victorians offer to billet the visiting youngsters.

GVCA official Capt. Norman Foster said today response to an earlier request for lodging has been "poor."

The drill teams are expected to come here from Western Washington College and Port Townsend.

HMCS Cordova will carry out firing practice in Juan de Fuca Strait Thursday, from 8.30 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Theft of $250 worth of television tubes and electrical equipment from Irene's Furniture, 707 View, was reported to city police Tuesday.

WINNER of the Royal Canadian Institute $500 scholarship in natural sciences for 1956-57 is Victoria Louise Bergbusch, 20, 1372 Craigdarroch. She has just completed her third year in honors biology at University of Saskatchewan, Saskatoon. In 1955 she won the second year arts and sciences scholarship at the university.

Damage estimated at about $250 was caused to the residence of Frank Hall, 355 Arnot, Tuesday afternoon, when a spark from a rubbish fire started a roof fire at the home.

Saanich firemen rushed to the scene at 3.30 p.m. and quickly extinguished the blaze.

John Taylor of 56 Regina street, Saanich, wants to start an open-air children's club for children and old people at the playground at Simms and Regina.

He would like to hear from checker players who would be willing to assist in forming the club.

"I used to own the land at Simms and Regina," Mr. Taylor told the Times, "but I have given it to Saanich as playground. It is small but I think it would be ideal for checkers."

Lawrence J. Wallace, director, night schools and community programs branch, Department of Education, will lecture in a summer course at University of British Columbia on administration of adult education programs.

The course, July 3 to 20, is being offered for the first time in western Canada by UBC.

It is planned for school teachers, principals and superintendents.

Victoria area Ground Observer Corps regional supervisor E. F. Stephenson said today the corps has been declared responsible for recent rescue of an aircraft crew missing in the B.C. interior. He pointed out that similar look-out posts are active at Esquimalt, Malahat, Bamerton, Shawnigan Lake, Prospect Lake, Saanichton, Sooke Lake and Oak Bay, on a 24-hour basis.

Victoria Freeman Bert Thomas plans another attempt to swim the 20-odd miles from Seattle to Tacoma Friday.

He plans to enter the water at 10 a.m. Victoria time and anticipates the swim will take nine hours.

Thomas is the only man to swim the Strait of Juan de Fuca.

Local 1-118 International Woodworkers of America holds its general meeting Sunday at 2 p.m. in the CCL labor hall, 715 Johnson. Shop stewards meet prior to the membership at noon.

Victoria Choral Society elected L. A. Yeomans president for the coming season at its annual meeting Tuesday night. B. P. Allard is vice-president. Mrs. L. M. Greenhouse secretary, C. R. Holt treasurer, and committee members N. K. Barr, Mrs. Michael Penn, Mrs. Mary Campbell and Mrs. J. M. Hurley.

In city police court today John Douglas Munro, 636 Newport, was fined $5 on a charge of driving against traffic on a one-way street April 26.

CHICO SPENT NIGHT OUT

Unrepentant Chico merely sneers as she receives mild scolding from owner Roy Cooper, who berated her for monkeying around all night in Central

9,800 Attend Second Day Of Jaycee Fair

Second day of the Victoria Industrial and Agricultural Exhibition, sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce, drew a total attendance of 9,800 to the arena and curling rink.

"This is an encouraging increase on the 8,000 who saw the exhibition Monday and we are hoping today's attendance will reach 15,000," Frank Mannix, publicity chairman said.

Objective for the week is a total attendance of 50,000.

The exhibition has received hundreds of phone calls asking the price of admission. It is 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children of 12 years and over. Children under 12 accompanied by an adult are admitted free.

DRIVER PRIZE

Tuesday's door prize, an automatic washer, was won by Wes Calbrick, 516 Churchill avenue, Nanaimo. Tonight's door prize is an automatic drier.

Beauty Queen candidates competing for the "Miss Victoria" title received another ovation when they paraded in the arena and curling rink Tuesday. They paraded each night at 8.30 p.m. in the arena and 9 p.m. in the curling rink.

"The exhibition is well on the way to being the most successful we have ever had," Frank Mannix said. "The arena and curling rink and the midway were packed out on the first two nights."

Prominent in IODE, Mary Annie Warder Funeral on Friday

A resident here most of her life, Mary Annie Warder died at her home at 542 Fraser today at age of 73.

Mrs. Warder was born in Devon, England, in August of 1882 and had resided in Victoria and Esquimalt since 1884.

She was a life member of the Esquimalt Chapter IODE, of which she was a member for 39 years. She was also treasurer of the Esquimalt Friendly Help for 23 years.

Funeral services will be held Friday, cortege leaving Hayward's chapel at 1.10 p.m., proceeding to St. Paul's Anglican Church, where Rev. J. A. Roberts will officiate at 1.30 p.m. She is survived by her husband, Major Albert Alfred Warder; two sons, A. Thomas of 1237 Esquimalt Road and W. Donald of 1408 Craddock; also three grandchildren. Mr. and Mrs. Warder celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary recently.

RCN TO COMMEMORATE BATTLE OF ATLANTIC

Two outdoor services of commemoration for the Battle of the Atlantic will be held by the RCN Pacific Command Sunday, May 20.

The general public will be welcomed at both. The Protestant service will be held on the upper playing field at HMCS Naden, commencing at 9.30 a.m. Bleachers built for the visit here of the Duke of Edinburgh will accommodate 3,200.

Protestant Command Chaplain G. L. Gillard is in charge, and the Naden band and Venture choir will be in attendance.

The Roman Catholic service, also at 9.30, will be at St. Ann's Academy, under the direction of Roman Catholic Command Chaplain J. E. Whelly.

HMCS Stettler Open To Public May 20

RCN ships will visit Victoria's Inner Harbor and the Island ports of Nanaimo and Port Alberni in connection with Victoria Day celebrations this month, the Pacific Command announced today.

The frigate HMCS Stettler will be moored at the CPR dock here from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday, May 20, and will be open for public inspection in the afternoon.

The second Canadian mine-sweeping squadron, comprising HMCS Comox, James Bay and Fortune will be at Port Alberni May 20 to 22, following exercises which start from Esquimalt on May 14.

From Port Alberni, the 'sweepers' will go to Aberdeen, Wash., for an informal visit from May 25 to 28, returning to base May 31.

The frigate HMCS Jonquiere is scheduled to visit Nanaimo May 20 and 21.

The RCN will also parade the white ensign on Monday, May 21, in the Victoria Day parade here.

Life Membership For Photographers

Two Victorians are the first photographers to be made honorary life members of B.C. Professional Photographers' Association.

They are Miss A. Conacher and H. U. Knight, recognized for their long service to photography.

Miss Conacher served her apprenticeship in the profession in Glasgow more than 50 years ago. She set up operations in Edmonton before coming to Victoria about 25 years ago to work with Sylvia and has been active in photography until recently.

Mr. Knight opened a studio here nearly 40 years ago, and is still in business. He came to Canada from England about 1911, practising first in Vancouver.

Picture, Essay Contest For Children Set by SPCA

Victoria branch of the B.C. Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals is sponsoring a picture-essay-snapshot contest for children aged 7 to 13 years.

In group one will be painting or crayon drawing contest. An outlined picture can be obtained from pet shops, veterinarians or at the SPCA, Wilson Street.

Group two is the snapshot section. Contestants must submit pictures taken themselves of an animal or animals and send them to the SPCA. They can't be returned unless accompanied by a stamped, addressed envelope.

Group three is an essay contest. Essays, dealing with animals, must not be more than 300 words.

All entries must be received by May 31. Prizes will be radios, cameras, books and other items.

THREE-WHEELER MAKES DEBUT HERE

Scouting around city streets today to amazement of Victorians was Messerschmidt tri-car, shown here, only one of its kind so far in Canada. Vehicle weighs 500 pounds, seats two adults and a child, has top speed of 63 m.p.h. and goes 100 miles per gallon. Idea is to establish agency here. Man waving hello is Peter Homon, representing Edmonton firm bringing car to Canada.

Weather Forcing Logging Changes

Work Hours Advanced

Forest fire threat and low humidities have forced a number of lower Vancouver Island loggers to start work at 5 a.m. and avoid operating in hottest part of the day.

Sooke Lake Logging Co. at Leechtown has started the early shift, one Malahat operator has followed suit, and several in the Cowichan Lake area are starting work at 5 a.m.

"May is awfully early in the year to start that shift," said Edwin Haw, financial secretary of International Woodworkers of America Local 1-118 here.

"What will it be like later on? The forest is so hot at Leechtown at midday that you could fry eggs on the rocks up there."

The company's Sooke Lake operation is at the 2,000-foot level.

LOW READINGS

Forest Service officials have reported recent humidity readings as low as 26 in the Duncan area, although at present they are dropping to a minimum of 30 to 35 each day.

Most loggers stop their operations when the relative humidity drops to 32.

Illegal Plumbing Work Blamed For Health Danger

A health hazard exists in a Gordon Head district due to illegal plumbing installations, a Saanich sanitary department investigation has disclosed.

H. D. Watt, sanitary inspector, in a special report to council, said homes in the San Ardo subdivision are running their waste water into an open ditch.

In addition, he said, there is evidence that septic tank effluent is also running into the ditch.

The investigation was ordered by Reeve Arthur Ash following complaints from residents.

"Something will have to be done about this," said the Reeve.

Mr. Watt suggested that former councillor H. K. (Pat) Bate is to blame for the present drainage trouble.

THURSDAY MEETINGS

Optimist Club: Pacific Club, noon.

Toastmaster Club 38: Pacific Club, evening.

Y's Men's Club: YMCA club room, 6.30 p.m.; speaker, Lyle Somers, juvenile officer.

DR. STEELE 'UNCHANGED'

Dr. Anne Steele, flown to Victoria from B.C.'s interior Tuesday after an operation on her head following injuries in a riding accident, is still fighting for her life in St. Joseph's Hospital.

Hospital authorities today reported "no change, only a slight improvement" in her condition, which is still critical.

She suffered a fractured skull.

HATS OFF TO WEATHER

The sun continues to smile on Victoria residents, including Pat Gannon, and Pat, for one, is happy to smile right back. She's trying on latest style in spring hats, a fetching floral motif designed and produced by the famed couturier, Mother Nature. More smiling skies are on the way, the weatherman says, although moister air means a few more clouds and faint possibility of showers. (Times photo by Halkett.)

Auditors Deny Blame In Sewer Deficit

The Victoria auditing firm of Ismay, Boiston and Dunn today denied it was in any way to blame for Saanich's "sewer fiasco" which revealed a $500,000 deficit on the $2,100,000 project.

Coun. Eugene Diespecker, at a municipal council meeting Tuesday night, strongly criticized the auditing firm for what he termed failure to inform last year's council of the impending deficit.

He suggested in future tenders be called for auditing the municipality's finances.

G. Fitzpatrick Dunn, partner in the auditing firm, said today: "We are absolutely amazed to hear that Coun. Diespecker blamed our firm for the sewer fiasco. In actual fact, the impending sewer project deficit was only brought to light because of special work we carried out without remuneration."

He said the firm repeatedly recommended to the former Saanich authorities that changes be made to the accounting department.

"We did extra work for the municipality which is not required under the Municipal Act," Mr. Dunn said. "We even assisted in revamping a part of the accounting system."

Miss H. Elliott, municipal accountant, confirmed that the auditing firm had provided extra services to the municipality.

Reeve Arthur Ash said Coun. Diespecker's opinions did not represent his views.

"After all, the former council

must share some of the responsibility for the sewer deficit," he said.

The Reeve added that he is not against the suggestion that tenders be called to audit the municipality's books.

"This is often done by councils in Eastern Canada," he said.

Coun. Diespecker's criticism came when the auditing firm applied to council for a fee increase due to the increased volume of work.

Council turned down the request on the grounds that when a municipal administrator is hired, he will take over a large part of the auditing.

AT PRESENT ASSISTANT CHIEF OF STAFF, operations, for the flag officer, Pacific coast, Cmdr. Richard C. Chenoweth has been appointed naval attaché to the Canadian minister to Sweden and Finland, and on the staff of the ambassador of Canada to Norway, as naval attaché. His appointment is effective July 1. Born in Westmont, Que., Cmdr. Chenoweth entered the RCNVR in 1938, and transferred to the active force on the outbreak of war. This is his second tour of duty on the west coast.

Victoria Men Will Navigate East Swimmers

Victoria fishermen Alf Webb and John Veness have been engaged by Toronto swim coach Steve Mellors to navigate for two Juan de Fuca Strait marathons he will bring here in mid-June.

Mellors wired Tuesday to say he would arrive with Fearnley Wheatcroft, 58, and Ted Simmons, 25, around June 15.

Both have swum in Lake Ontario and Wheatcroft swam the English Channel in 1938.

Earlier, Mellors said he might bring 19-year-old Shirley Campbell, 1955 Lake Ontario swimmer, with the other two.

Miss Campbell, however, would be coached by R. H. "Bert" Crockett of Victoria, her former swimming instructor in Fergus, Ont., her home.

She has expressed a keen interest in the Strait, but her Toronto sponsors hold the deciding vote whether she comes to Victoria this year.

Saanich Engineer Sets Retirement

H. D. Dawson will retire as Saanich municipal engineer this year.

Reeve Arthur Ash made the announcement at a council meeting Tuesday called to approve the 1956 budget. His retirement will become effective as soon as Saanich can engage an engineer to take over his office.

Mr. Dawson, who was appointed municipal engineer in 1947, is 68 years of age.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Mate Should Understand Wife's Depressive Moods

I believe that information and education concerning a woman's menstrual period, and its effect on her, should be an important part of all marriage counselling or preparation for marriage, for both the man and woman.

I am certain that the foundation for many divorces was laid, month after month, because of lack of information of this sort. The guy marries a girl who has a sweet disposition. Suddenly she may become depressed, "weepy," sensitive, or completely unreasonable. The bewildered man doesn't know what is happening and so he lashes back. Even worse, or as sad, very often the woman doesn't know what is happening either. She has not correlated her "mood" with the time of month.

This is not a superficial idea or article. Many intelligent couples mill through years without recognizing this factor. Month after month comes the "blowup." Month after month they say things to each other which they really do not mean but which are pretty bitter. They are caught in a vicious circle, neither knowing why. Resentment builds up in both the man and the woman.

I am not suggesting that a woman take advantage of this situation. I am suggesting that if both the husband and wife are informed the woman will control herself to the best of her ability, and if she can't help blowing her top, once in a while, if she is less gay, and more sensitive, her husband will be sympathetic and understanding rather than bewildered and cruel.

If a woman recognizes this about herself she will not allow herself the luxury (perhaps penalty is a better word) of talking about anything serious or making any decision at this time. Even if she feels like tearing her hair and throwing books, she will remain quiet, waiting for four days hence. She will not even allow her husband to trap her into an argument of any kind, should he come home from the office tired or discouraged.

With two informed, understanding, sympathetic people, this can become a household joke rather than a household tragedy. The magic phrase is, "What is the day of the month?"

We can be sure that this is an important factor in happy living when the distinguished Doctor Joseph H. Morton, assistant physician and endocrinologist, New York Medical Centre, says, "With the evidence of about 50 per cent of all menstruating women, premenstrual tension must be regarded as the commonest 'nervous' disorder of women." Some put the incidence even higher.

More tomorrow about this.

Bride's Close Family Should Not Give Shower

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, Ph.D.

When custom and tradition decree that certain things be done in certain ways, a person should bow to these decrees, even at the expense of another's feelings.

Q—I am writing in regard to a problem that is really having a field day at this time of year. My younger sister is getting married this spring and has asked me to have a bridal shower for her. I am very much opposed to this sort of thing because I have heard it referred to as 'a bid for a gift' when a shower is given by a close relative, and I agree it looks like that. I think it is fine if a close friend or a co-worker honors a future bride but, at the same time, I certainly do not want to hurt my sister's feelings by refusing to give a shower for her. Am I being old-fashioned? I notice this is being done every day. I would appreciate your opinion on this matter. —L.B.

(A)—According to all rules of etiquette, members of the family of the bride do not give showers for her. As you have suggested, it looks too much like a "bid for gifts" and this, in turn, is regarded as being in poor taste.

I am sure your sister would understand if you explained this to her and would not want to put you or herself in a position where you could be criticized for doing something that is not supposed to be done. True, as you pointed out, it is being done every day, but that does not make it right nor does it eliminate criticism.

Why not suggest, as a substitute, a party for members of the bride's party the night before the wedding, following the wedding rehearsal? Or, if this time has already been spoken for by someone else, a luncheon on the day of the wedding. If it is to be an afternoon wedding.

There is no question about the fact that showers help young brides-to-be get the equipment they need for setting up housekeeping. But, the family of the bride should not ask outsiders to do this. Friends of the family, on the other hand, can honor a future bride in this way and no criticism will follow.

This Lovely New Canadian Helps Immigrants Adjust

VANCOUVER — Beautiful blondes don't necessarily have to be dumb. Ask any of the men who speak—in any one of eight languages—to the beautiful blonde Master of Social Sciences who has recently been appointed Canadian Pacific Airline's Immigration Services representative in Vancouver.

Miss Beatrice Wallenstein's new job is to assist new Canadians. She will help re-unite immigrants with their relatives, straighten out their immigration problems and help them to budget for trips back home. The attractive 28-year-old Czechoslovakian is a new Canadian herself, who is in love with her adopted country.

"Canada's new sons and daughters must start a new life, but they need not leave the rich traditions and cultures of their homelands in their suitcases," says Miss Wallenstein.

"Instead they should give Canada the best they have to offer—straight from the heart."

Miss Wallenstein has been assisting immigrants ever since coming to Canada three years ago. Prior to joining CPA, she worked with the Intergovernmental Committee for European Migration directing the movement of displaced persons and refugees to Canada. Last June she played cupid for a Vancouver man whose bride was half a world away. When Alfredo and Vincenza Briglio were married, the bride was in Italy and the bridegroom, in Vancouver. They were married by proxy with friends representing the missing party in each of the ceremonies.

Nearly a year later they were united in Vancouver, where Alfredo works as a barber. Beatrice Wallenstein's agency made the reunion possible by lending

Alfredo the money for his bride's fare.

Beatrice learned her eight languages in Czechoslovakia, where she was born and raised.

Same she learned at school, others she just "picked up," and now her list includes English, Italian, Spanish, Russian, French, Czech, German and Slovak.

She received her master's degree in social sciences at the University of Geneva in 1950. The blue-eyed blonde majored in social science, social economy, political economy, sociology and law.

Miss Wallenstein, who landed in Montreal as an immigrant, has held down jobs of all kinds "to get the feel of the people." Her blue eyes twinkled as she said, "My first position in Canada was behind the counter of a large store as a saleslady. My feet got very sore, but I met a lot of delightful people."

Afternoon Branch, Woman's Auxiliary of St. Mary's, Oak Bay, parish hall, Thursday at 2.30 p.m.

To Talk Alaska Deal

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Vancouver Province said today that the Alaska delegate in the United States Congress will see External Affairs Minister Pearson this week to talk about Canadian access to northern Canada through the Alaska Panhandle.

The Province quoted J. A. Simmons, Liberal Member of Parliament for the Yukon, as saying the Alaska delegate, E. L. Bartlett, "is anxious to see you to talk things over. We're arranging a meeting for him."

The newspaper said it had been given a strong hint by Alaska Governor B. Frank Heintzleman that his country might be prepared to make a deal. He said that the ceding of territory was "out of the question" and that Canadian corridors through the Panhandle "aren't necessary."

"But the matter of access is an entirely different thing," the Panhandle is the southern extension of Alaska from north of the 59th Parallel to south of the 55th Parallel. It covers offshore islands and extends inland several miles.

This strip of land cuts off northwestern Canada from sea communications except through U.S. ports.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today he will undergo a head-to-toe physical examination on Friday, including a check on his heart condition. Eisenhower did not say what prompted the decision for another full-scale check-up at this time.

Huge Real Estate
Project in Toronto

TORONTO (CP)—A plan described as Canada's largest single real-estate development, a 10,000-acre residential and industrial site in Toronto's eastern suburbs, was disclosed today.

Land for the project has been bought by a group of six financial syndicates.

Dr. E. G. Faludi, planning consultant, predicted a city of 120,000 on the new development.

TCA Orders Jet Liners
For Cross-Canada Service

Trans-Canada Air Lines announced today it is buying U.S. built jet liners powered by British engines to link Vancouver and Toronto in four hours and 10 minutes.

The new jets will enable a passenger to leave Toronto at noon, Eastern time, and arrive in Vancouver slightly after 1 p.m., Pacific time.

Heralding the start of the jet transport age in Canada, TCA said it has ordered four intercontinental four-jet aircraft, and taken an option on two more.

The American-built planes, Douglas DC-8s, will be powered by British Rolls-Royce Conway turbo-jet engines. Costing some $5,500,000 each, the aircraft will represent an investment of nearly $28,000,000 with spare parts.

The jets are scheduled for delivery early in 1960 and will be available to service long-haul trans-Atlantic and trans-continental routes later that year.

Capable of carrying 120 passengers and three tons of cargo, the DC-8 will cruise at about 550 miles an hour at about 35,000 feet, an airline statement said.

The four-jet planes would be capable of flying from Montreal to London in six hours and 10 minutes.

Provision for weather-detecting radar and all the latest improvements will be standard on all DC-8s, TCA said. Certain details regarding interior arrangements were being worked out with the manufacturer, the Douglas Aircraft Company Inc. of Santa Monica, Calif., but it was expected the aircraft will accommodate both first and tourist-class passengers.

WEMBLEY, Eng. (UP)—Tommy Taylor and Colin Grainger each scored two goals but Stan Matthews, a veteran of scores of international soccer matches, drew the bulk of the cheers from a crowd of 100,000 today as England defeated Brazil, 4-2.

The 41-year-old Matthews, romping on the lush green turf of Wembley Stadium like a 20-year-old, set up both of Taylor's goals and one of Grainger's tallies.

June 7 Target Date
For Commons Okay

OTTAWA (CP)—The government faces a bitterly hostile opposition in its coming attempt to win within a month parliamentary approval of a massive treasury loan to the long-delayed cross-Canada natural gas pipeline.

Liberal strategists already are considering whether the government should apply closure to get the loan through the Commons.

Closure is a rarely-used parliamentary device to end prolonged debate and force a vote on a major controversial issue.

Conservative and CCF parties have indicated they will put up an all-out delaying fight.

(Times Ottawa correspondent Victor J. Mackie reported this afternoon the Conservatives consider the pipeline loan as one of the best political issues ever handed to them by the St. Laurent government. "They will fight the legislation every step of the way through Parliament," Mackie reported.)

Formal notice of Mr. Howe's resolution was printed on the Commons order paper today. Debate will start Thursday or Friday. This resolution must be adopted before the loan legislation is introduced.

Mr. Howe's resolution seeks authority for a total of $130,000,000 to be outstanding at any one time in federal loans and advances on the western and Ontario portions of the 2,200-mile line.

The loan would be administered by the proposed north-Pipe Lines Ltd., the private company holding the pipeline franchise, could complete this year the line's Alberta-to-Winnipeg section if Parliament ratifies the loan to it "within a reasonable time."

Experts say it would be the crown corporation, set up by the federal government, to administer in co-operation with Ontario, which would take over the line.

The plan involves a federal possession of Trans-Canada's loan for 90 per cent of the estimated $80,000,000 cost of the prairie leg of the 2,200-mile line.

Oakalla Rioters
Face New Charge

But Action Delayed Until Probe
Of Convicts' Case by A-G

(See also Page 2)

Three desperate criminals who held a razor to an Oakalla Prison guard's neck Monday night to win a review of their case may face further charges as a result of their actions.

Meanwhile prison authorities scattered the trio to different parts of the jail. Each is under special guard today.

Warden Hugh Christie disclosed he had moved two prisoners to another wing in the prison, and the third to a different cell in the west wing, where the trouble occurred.

A government legal official said today the three convicts "could be prosecuted" for threatening the life of guard Ernie Loveless.

Deputy Attorney-General H. Alan Maclean, who promised "under a certain amount of duress" to review the convicts' case, confirmed that charges could be laid.

But he said the A-G's department would not even consider the matter until the review of the False Creek beating case in which the three men were involved is completed.

MAY TALK TO GORDON
"Before any consideration is given in that regard, I intend to apply myself to my undertaking—to look into the case," said Mr. Maclean.

The trio, Robert Tremblay, 35, Marcel Frenette, 29, and Charles Talbot, 37, were convicted of the attempted murder of Thomas Kinna in Vancouver's False Creek flats areas.

A key witness in their conviction, Robert Gordon, who is now serving time in Nelson

STATEMENT WHETS BIG MYSTERY

Frog Man Operated Without Permission From Top—Eden

LONDON (Reuters)—Sir Anthony Eden said today that whatever British frogman, Lieutenant Crabb did before his mysterious disappearance in Portsmouth Bay, it was done without the knowledge of government ministers.

"Appropriate disciplinary steps are being taken," the prime minister told the House of Commons.

Crabb, a former Royal Navy lieutenant-commander, vanished during an unexplained mission in Portsmouth Bay during the visit there of the Soviet cruiser Ordzhonikidze. There has been widespread speculation that he was drowned while spying for a British secret service organization on the warship which brought Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin and Nikita Khrushchev on a visit to Britain.

Eden refused to give any details about the case.

Labor members had demanded the facts of Crabb's disappearance. Amidst surprised cries from the Laborites, Eden declared: "It would not be in the public interest to disclose the circumstances in which Lieutenant Commander Crabb is presumed to have met his death."

Labor MP John Dugdale said Eden's reply to his original question about Crabb "is one of the most extraordinary statements ever made by a prime minister."

"Why was Commander Crabb diving in the close vicinity of the Soviet cruiser here on a friendly visit?" Dugdale demanded.

He accused Eden of "complete evasion of ministerial responsibility" in refusing to give the facts.

NO ELABORATION

The prime minister said he had nothing to add to his statement, even after Dugdale asked on what authority police had torn leaves from the register book of a Portsmouth hotel where Crabb stayed just before his disappearance.

Opposition leader Hugh Gaitskell said the government's attitude was not so much in the interests of public security as to hide "a very grave blunder which has occurred."

He asked Eden point-blank to say whether Crabb was engaged in an espionage mission.

The prime minister replied: "Mr. Gaitskell is perfectly entitled to put any wording he likes on what I said. My words stand as they are without any gloss anyone can put on them."

Eden added that certain issues are the responsibility only of the prime minister.

Britain's secret service is answerable directly to the prime minister.

Eden said he was convinced his decision on the matter was "the right and only one."

Emanuel Shinwell, Labor, pressed Eden to say against whom disciplinary action would be taken but the prime minister replied: "I have nothing to add to the answer I have given."

The deputy said two courses of action are possible in the case of prisoners who "misbehave."

"One, they can be prosecuted, and two, in addition, or substitution, they can be tried in warden's court."

The warden of a prison is provided with a set number of penalties he can impose on unruly prisoners.

He divulged that Gordon has made statements to police officers and others, apart from his evidence in the trial of Frenette, Tremblay and Talbot.

Mr. Maclean said a statement taken from the three men by Vancouver Province city editor Bruce Larsen, who bargained for guard Loveless' life with an extra edition of his newspaper, has not yet been received.

"The newspaper phoned me. They said it was in yesterday afternoon's mail," said Mr. Maclean.

B.C. Man Charged In $200,000 Fraud

VANCOUVER (CP)—Police today charged Goodman Florence, 35-year-old business consultant, with conducting a fraudulent investment scheme which cheated speculators of up to $200,000.

Officers said the fraud detectives are still investigating ramifications of the scheme which they said was in the form of a retirement fund. Some 40 witnesses will be heard in the case. They said individual investors lost between $500 and $9,000.

Florence was remanded for one week when he appeared in police court today. Lawyer David Silvers said he had no instructions to ask for bail.

If Big Bomb Dud It Can be Disarmed

By ELTON C. FAY

ENIWETOK ATOLL (AP)—Weapons experts waiting here for the world's greatest man-made explosion from the air are prepared to cope with the unlikely possibility that the scheduled shot should turn out to be the world's greatest dud.

The H-bomb explosion now is tentatively set for Friday morning (Thursday afternoon in Victoria) after having been delayed Tuesday for the third time because of unfavorable wind conditions.

In considering eventualities, the United States weapons expert said they are prepared to handle even the possibility that the nuclear weapon might plummet to earth without exploding after it leaves the B-52 Stratojet bomber 50,000 feet in the air.

Assuming that the unexploded H-bomb should land "in an accessible area," the team of experts say they could disarm it.

"Then after analysis, the team would attempt to salvage any useful remaining components under the usual radiological safety precautions."

Unofficial guesses are that the H-bomb will produce an explosion equivalent to the energy produced by 7,000,000 tons of TNT, so the

3 Dead, Hundreds Hurt In Cyprus Riots

ATHENS (AP)—Greek mobs inflamed by the impending execution of two Greek-Cypriot terrorists burned a Union Jack in Athens' main square, attacked the U.S. information service office and demonstrated against Britain today in riots which left two killed and 120 injured.

Police said rioters opened fire on them, which led to an exchange of bullets, in addition to stoning and clubbing.

Police headquarters said 80 demonstrators and 40 police were injured, some with bullet wounds. Hospitals reported two dead.

NICOSIA, Cyprus (Reuters)—British troops charged with clubs and fired over the heads of shouting demonstrators in Limassol today shortly after a British officer was killed in a separate outbreak at Paphos.

Violence and fears of a major anti-British revolt wracked this Mediterranean island colony as Greek Cypriots demonstrated against Tuesday's decision to execute two convicted terrorists.
